

Poincare Scorns Reparations Offer Made by Germany

French Premier in First Official Expression Since Receipt Declares Note Is "Ridiculous."

POPULAR OPINION
VOICED BY PREMIER

Belgium Looks Upon Offer as Step Toward Final Capitulation of German Government.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Paris, June 8.—Premier Poincare absolutely rejected the German reparations proposals tonight in his first official expression since the receipt of the note from Berlin when he appeared before the senate commissions on foreign affairs and finance to answer a long questionnaire on the operations in the Ruhr.

The premier said the French and Belgian governments should agree not to consider any proposal from Chancellor Cuno unless it was preceded by complete and final cessation of the German passive resistance campaign.
He assured the senators that the government's relations with the Belgians were entirely satisfactory, and that everything was going well in the Ruhr.

Premier Poincare, upon reading the German reparations note, is reported to have called it "ridiculous" and the newspapers, with the exception of the extremist organs, take the same attitude.

Strong Words Used.
The six leading papers of Paris apply to the memorandum such epithets
as "inadmissible," "unacceptable" and
"not needing a reply." Le Matin finds that the note has the appearance of a challenge, so greatly does it fail to recognize the political situation.

Even the anti-ministerial L'Oeuvre says the new propositions are objectionable in many ways especially the suggestion for a moratorium of four years in which France would receive nothing. Not even the expense of the Ruhr occupation.

The newspapers devote themselves chiefly to a discussion of whether anything more than a formal acknowledgment of the memorandum would be sent by France and Belgium, whether a joint allied reply will be dispatched, or whether the allies will discuss the question in supreme council.

One point especially criticized is that the administration of the proposed guarantees would be retained in German hands; furthermore, some commentators assert, the memorandum fails to explain how a yield in paper marks can be turned into gold.

Step to Capitulation.
Brussels, June 8.—Germany's amended reparations proposals, after careful examination by experts, are considered unacceptable by the Belgian government, it was declared in authoritative circles today. It was added, however, that the government looked upon the offer as a step toward Germany's final capitulation as a result of the occupation of the Ruhr.

Resume Disarmament.
Paris, July 8.—The allied council of ambassadors has decided that the commission of inter-allied control to supervise the disarmament of Germany, which abandoned its work several months ago, shall be resumed.

The German charge d'affaires in Paris was handed an official note this morning informing his government
"categorically and solemnly" that the inter-allied military control must again be enforced and that the allied must take such measures as are necessary to facilitate the commission's work and prevent obstructive tactics
and annoyances of the allied delegates.

Captain Frank T. Ames, commander of the navy supply station at Hampton Roads, Va., were selected today for promotion to rear admirals.

President Harding approved the promotions.

BRITISH PREMIER CAUGHT BETWEEN FACTIONAL FIRES

Opposite Groups on Reparations Issue Present Problem for Baldwin; Bitterness Expressed.

London, June 8.—Premier Baldwin faces the problems of all his predecessors in dealing with the new German reparations note.

England would like to answer the note, making it at least the basis of future negotiations. France refuses to have anything to do with German offers that do not include the surrender of the policy of passive resistance.

Two groups demand Baldwin's support—first, the business section that desires consideration and leniency for Germany to prevent forcing a German collapse and throwing world trade
out of joint; second, the political faction, represented by Lord Rothermere and The Daily Mail, that opposes any conciliatory tactics with ex-enemies and demands the upholding of the entente before everything.

One group, bitter over the French irreconcilable attitude, would junk the alliance, and even speaks of an inevitable future Anglo-German entente.
The second would throw the nation's whole weight behind continuance of the wartime union with France, interpreted in strongest terms.

Must Decide Attitude.
Self-placed to continue the policies of Bonaparte Law, including non-interference by Britain in the Ruhr matter, Baldwin must either make a decisive anti-German or anti-French stroke, or else must straddle the question. He must either line up behind France in a general allied note flatly squashing the German terms or must oppose France by holding out for the previous policy of separate allied answers to the German note.

A straddle can be accomplished by a separate British note not condemning the terms utterly but insisting on something more tangible. This would please the one British faction, but would be distasteful to France, already touchy on the question of what she terms England's failure to support her ally.

Italy is as yet an unknown factor.
Premier Mussolini, if he considered

School of Public Health Planned By Emory Alumni

Drive for Funds Opens in 1925—Dr. Poer Heads
Medical Alumni.

Abolishment of plans for a drive for funds to erect a new school at Emory university and election of officers were chief features of the annual banquet of the medical alumni association of that institution, held at the Capital City club last night.

Dr. John M. Poer, of West Point, was elected head of the association
at the annual banquet. Dr. L. P.
Stephens and Dr. J. W. Roberts, of Atlanta, were elected vice president and secretary, respectively. Dr. Poer succeeded Dr. J. P. Bowdoin, who served as president for the last three years.

The most important business step taken during the meeting was the decision to appoint a committee of five members to take in charge plans for a drive for funds for the establishment of a school of public health and hygiene for Emory. This committee is empowered to appoint other representatives in and outside the state of Georgia to announce the drive
which is scheduled to begin in June, 1925.

Robert C. Ellis, of Tifton, a member of the state legislature, made an address favoring the resolutions, and the movement was approved by other members of the body.

man of the Emory university committee which drafted the constitution

STATE TO DEMAND MEN WHO KILLED ALLEGED TIGERS

Napier Will Represent Georgia at Habeas Corpus Hearing Before Judge Sibley Today.

OFFICERS IN CUSTODY OF FEDERAL AGENTS

Possibility Is Seen That Georgia May Claim Men Killed Were Victims of Illegal Arrests.

Attorney General George M. Napier
will lead the legal forces of the state of Georgia this morning in an effort to defeat the fight for freedom of six federal and county officers accused of the murder of Jett and J.
B. Smith, of Athens, alleged bootleggers. The six prisoners will ask release at hearing on a habeas corpus petition before United States Judge
Samuel H. Sibley at 9 o'clock.

John W. Henley, of the office of the United States district attorney,
will represent the accused officers,
who are charged with murder in warrants sworn out by relatives of the slain men. He declared Friday night that under the evidence thus far brought out, the six officers were not guilty of any crime, having shot the Smiths in line of duty, and that they should be freed.

Contention of State.

Attorney General George M. Napier
asserted Friday night that he will contend that, since the state has charged the officers with murder, that the United States authorities should not deprive the state of the prisoners but should permit them to be tried in Georgia courts from which appeal is open to the supreme court of Georgia and to the supreme court of the United States.

Associated with Attorney General
Napier will be Doyle Campbell, solicitor general of the Ocmulgee circuit,
Austin Belle of Athens and George T.
Finch, of Atlanta, retained by relatives of the slain men.

J. W. Powell, legal adviser of the federal prohibition forces in Georgia, will be associated with Assistant District Attorney Henley.

The federal government will ask that the six officers either be released or admitted to bail, under custody of federal officers until indictments are brought against them. Attorney General Napier will seek to have the officers kept under custody of officers of the state.

Not Held in Jail.

Judge Sibley Friday afternoon signed an order temporarily transferring the accused men from the custody of Sheriff Hixon, of Greene county, to that of the United States deputy marshal, pending decision at the hearing.

FORMER PREMIER FAINTS IN COURT

Rene Viviani Victim of Fainting Spell—Depression Caused by Death of Wife.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Paris, June 8.—Former Premier Rene Viviani suffered a fainting spell while pleading a case in court this afternoon and was taken to his home in a state of collapse.

M. Viviani while addressing the court appeared so fatigued that the judge asked if he did not wish to rest
a few moments. The former premier made no reply, but stood looking vacantly at the court and suddenly crumpled to his desk. He recovered from the fainting spell within a quarter of an hour, when he was taken home. He has been greatly depressed since the recent death of his wife.

Rene Viviani, who is 60 years of age, was premier of France in August, 1914, when war was declared. He retired as head of the government
after the hostilities had continued for a year in order to allow formation of the coalition cabinet under Briand.
He has visited the United States on several occasions, most recently as a member of the French delegation to the Washington conference. Early last year he announced his retirement from official life, returning to his law practice, which had been greatly depleted.

GIRL IS KILLED BY BOY SHOWING HOW GUN SHOOTS

St. Petersburg, Fla., June 8.—Hattie Lou Pullen, 9 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Pullen, living on Maximo Road near this city, was accidentally shot and killed this morning by Mallie Melvin, 18, who was demonstrating to the child's mother
how the gun, a .32 calibre revolver would shoot. The bullet which killed the little girl narrowly missed a baby she was holding in her arms.
Melvin was placed under arrest and lodged in the city jail pending a coroner's inquest.

CREATION OF PAY WARD AT GRADY GIVEN APPROVAL

State Legislature Will Have to Pass on Proposal Before It Can Go Into Effect.

An ordinance providing for establishment of a pay ward at Grady hospital where patients who are able to afford to pay for operations and treatment for various ills would be accepted, was approved by the charter revision committee of city council at its session Friday afternoon.

Before this measure is put into effect a charter amendment will have to be approved by the state legislature, giving the city the right to admit pay patients, the hospital now being maintained as a charitable and emergency institution. It is estimated by officials of Grady that approximately $15,000 a year in fees could be realized from pay patients.

At its same session the committee voted favorably on a resolution to ask permission of the state for erection of viaducts over the railway tracks at Pryor street and Central avenue in order to improve traffic congestion in the central section of Atlanta. This measure was advocated by Mayor Walter A. Sims.

The committee also voted favorably
on an ordinance by Councilman Harry York, providing for appointment by the mayor of a representative from each of twelve wards of Atlanta on the city planning commission, which is now made up of six commissioners
some of them from the same ward.

A measure providing for a city vehicle tax, similar to that imposed by the state also received favorable consideration from the committee. The amount of this city tax if granted by the general assembly will be fixed later, the funds to be expended on road and highway repair.

All of the amendments approved by the committee will be submitted to general council at its session Monday week, June 18.

Cotton Men Ask For Big Increase In Immigration

Desirable Citizens From Other Countries Needed Here,
It Is Claimed.

At the annual meeting of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association of Georgia, held in Atlanta Friday, resolutions were adopted calling upon the United States congress to so amend the immigration laws as to permit of a great increase in immigration to this country of desirable citizens. The resolutions also request that arrangements be made to examine applicants for admission to this country at ports of embarkation in Europe.

The association held its meetings
at the East Lake Country club, holding a morning business session and a combined business session and banquet at night. The afternoon was chiefly given over to golf for those who follow the ancient and honorable game.

List of Speakers.
Speakers before the convention included State Tax Commissioner Henry J. Fulbright, James D. Hammett, president of the South Carolina Manufacturers' association; Professor W. M. McLaurin and former United States Senator Hoke Smith.

The subject of Commissioner Fulbright's speech was "The State's Financial Condition and Tax Matters," and after hearing it the association adopted a resolution creating a committee of three to confer with similar committees already formed by the bankers' association and other similar bodies, and offer its services to the state in formulating and drafting legislation.

ACID THROWING FOLLOWS FILING OF DIVORCE SUIT

Mrs. J. W. Smith Seriously Burned in Effort to Throw Acid on Husband
After Quarrel.

HUSBAND REFUSES TO PROSECUTE WIFE

Petitions for Divorce, Alleging Non-Support, Before Visit to Doctor's Office.

Mrs. J. W. Smith, of 43 Ponders avenue, in an attempt to throw a pial of carbolic acid on her husband's face, was severely burned when the acid struck the wall, and splashed
over her own body, inflicting painful burns upon her arms and hands, it was reported to police. The husband escaped with minor burns upon his left cheek and eyelid. Mrs. Smith was rushed to Grady hospital where she was treated and later sent home.

Mrs. Smith entered the office of her husband at 806 Marietta street,
it is said, and, following a heated argument in which she claims Mr.
Smith advanced threateningly upon her, she produced the acid and threw it point blank at his head. In some manner, it is said, Dr. Smith evaded
the phial aimed from such short range, allowing it to strike the wall and rebound upon Mrs. Smith.

Claims Self-Defense.

Mrs. Smith stoutly claims she only resorted to the acid in self defense.
Fearing she was in imminent danger,
she stated, she produced the phial,
which was not intended for her husband when she purchased it but was to be used for disinfecting purposes at her home.

"My husband and myself had quarreled Friday morning," Mrs. Smith told The Constitution, "and had separated. I went to his office to obtain money or request him to sell a Viola in order to pay rent due for the house."

"On my first visit to the office
he was out; I decided to wait in a drug store in the same building on the ground floor until he returned.
While waiting I remembered I needed a disinfectant for the bathroom,
and bought the carbolic acid."

"When Dr. Smith arrived I went to his office and broached the sale of the Viola. He arose from his chair, swearing, as if to seize me.
Fearing bodily harm, I drew the acid."

CHINESE DEMAND JAPANESE APOLOGY

Note Sent to Tokio Demanding Indemnities and Punishment for Shooting of Chinese.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Peking, June 8.—The Chinese foreign office today sent a note to Tokio demanding an apology, indemnities and the punishment of the Japanese commander and his marines who shot down Chinese supporters of a Japanese boycott at Changsha, Province of Hunan, June 2.

The note demands the withdrawal of Japanese gunboats from Chang-sha, which is a treaty port on the Yangtze river; punishment of the Japanese commander and marines from the gunboat Fushimi; indemnifica-tion for the families of Chinese who were shot down during the disorders,
an official apology from the Japanese government and guarantees from Tokio that there will be no recurrence of such affairs.

The rioting at Changsha, June 2,
and at Shashi, Province of Hupei, May 15, was the result of the movement that has swept China during the few past months for a boycott of all things Japanese in retaliation for Japan's refusal to abrogate the famous "Twenty-One Demands" treaty of 1915.

At both these places Chinese students and other demonstrators attempted to search Japanese vessels for Japanese goods consigned to Chinese merchants rioting ensued, Japanese marines were landed and a number of Chinese were killed and many wounded in the subsequent clashes.

At Changsha the Chinese roamed
the streets destroying Japanese property and the Japanese consular staff was forced to flee for protection aboard the gunboat Fushimi.

Sweeping Probe Is Ordered Into Brokerage Dealings On New York Curb Market

CUNO DENOUNCED BY NATIONALISTS FOR MAKING OFFER

German Chancellor Is Threatened With Violent Measures If Further Concessions Are Granted Allies.

BY FERDINAND JAHN

Berlin, June 8.—Thoroughly angered by the French attitude of ignoring the latest reparations proposal, German nationalists heatedly denounced Chancellor Cuno for making even so large an offer and threaten violent measures if further concessions are granted.

Deputy Hergt of the reichstag, addressing fellow members of the "Deutsche Nationale" party, announced Pan-German opposition to Cuno's policy, saying "it is time to put an end to the present attitude. Offers have already gone too far."

He demanded that the Ruhr be evacuated by France before Germany undertook any more reparations payments and declared:
"If the government does not show
readiness to express an emphatic 'No,'
then we must avail ourselves strenuously of our last resource."

This is interpreted as meaning that the nationalists intend to resort to force unless Cuno takes a strong stand against France.

Meanwhile, however, the Ruhr itself is beginning to doubt the effectiveness of the passive resistance policy.
A Ruhr delegation of various political shades appeared Friday before Cuno, telling him that, due to the food situation, resistance must be made more "elastic."

The statement is taken here as a bid for lifting French repressive measures.

Note Resulting In Finding Body Causes 5 Arrests

Two Men and Three Women Held Following Discovery of Body.

Youngstown, Ohio, June 9.—Two men and three women are being held for questioning by the police tonight in connection with the death of Miss Helena Marie Drachmann, 21, whose mutilated body was found in a culvert
in a country road near here today following receipt by the authorities of an anonymous note reading:

"There is a dead person on the Hubbard road under the tunnel on this side of the Walker Road. Please see it."

Miss Drachmann, a sales girl, disappeared on the night of May 31. Her body was found jammed several feet in the culvert. A linen duster had been wrapped tightly around the face;
there were stab wounds in each breast,
and the left hand had been nearly severed from the wrist. Apparently the wounds were inflicted by a danger or stiletto.

The body was in such condition that identification was made from the girl's clothing.

A young man, who, police say, they had been told had been seen with Miss Drachmann on several occasions
until they quarrelled a few weeks ago,
when the girl accepted the attentions
of another youth, is being sought.

Title of Chairman Gains Little Head
From Guard at Pier

Boston, June 8.—The title of chairman of the United States shipping board availed Albert D. Lasker little when he attempted without credentials to pass the corporal of the guard,
at the south Boston pier where the big steamship Leviathan is tied up.
E. H. Farley, who is soon to be chairman Lasker's successor, had appeared five minutes earlier, explained his qualifications and been passed in.
The corporal, when Mr. Lasker arrived, thought two chairmen superfluous.

There was much explaining and the corporal consulted a marine at the gate before delivering a final verdict. Then he admitted Mr. Lasker, advising him, however, to "think up a better excuse next time."

HAL AND CHAPERON ATTEND LUNCHEON IN ATLANTIC CITY

Atlantic City, N. J., June 8.—(Special.)—Hal Crawford and Miss Katie Samuel, his chaperon, selected by The Constitution to be the guests of the Atlantic City Kiwanis club for the week, attended Kiwanis luncheon at Steel Pier today.

Hal was introduced as "Mayor Hal"
by President Bill Carrington and received big ovation when he climbed up on the speaker's table and expressed his thanks.

Miss Katie Samuel, his chaperon, also made a gracious response to the skyrocket cheer she received. Her essay on Kiwanis was read by one of the members. A reception was given this evening by Dr. and Mrs. W. J.
Carrington in honor of Miss Samuel and Hal Crawford and Mr. Walter Griff, who was elected international master of Kiwanis club in Atlanta.
Two hundred were invited guests.

TWO YOUNG GIRLS DROWN IN CREEK

Unable to Swim, Quitman
Girls, Aged 11 and 16,
Wade Into Deep Hole
While in Bathing.

Quitman, Ga., June 8.—(Special.)
Mary Green, aged 16, and Hazel Frazier, aged 11, were drowned in the Okapikco creek near Quitman this afternoon. Stella Huggins, who was in bathing with them, was saved by Mrs. Ed Williams.

The three children, accompanied by Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Huggins, went to the creek about 2 o'clock.
The girls went in beyond their depth in a hole. Both women went in to rescue them in the effort to rescue the girls, none of the party being able to swim.

The drowned girls were looked in each other's arms when the bodies were recovered several hours after the accident. They were drowned under the bridge on the Quitman-Valdosta highway.

After the Huggins girl was rescued
she tried to jump back into the water with the other struggling victims. A passing car brought her to town and secured aid.

Half Million Dollars
In Counterfeit Stamps
Seized in Detroit

Detroit, Mich., June 8.—Between $500,000 and $600,000 worth of counterfeit American and Canadian government stamps were seized by prohibition and secret service officers
late today in a raid on a West Warren avenue shop. The seizure included thousands of labels of all the principal brands of Scotch, Canadian and American whiskies, branded corks
and wrappers.

The officers also found a dozen cases of genuine liquor, which they believe was to be used in flavoring counterfeit mixtures.

A man giving the name of Isadore
Greenberg was arrested. Allan J.
Muscovitz, believed to be a member of the same gang, was arrested several hours previous to the raid.

?Why the Weather?

DR. CHARLES F. BROOKS,
Secretary American Meteorological Society, Tells:

What Wind Is
Wind is simply air in motion.
Air moves because of horizontal differences in atmospheric pressure, which result directly or indirectly
from contrasts in temperature.
Wind velocity as measured, for example, in miles per hour, depends principally on the pressure gradient, the air density, the latitude and the friction. In any locality
the pressure gradient at a certain time is the horizontal rate of change of pressure in the direction in which this rate is greatest. The greater the difference in pressure in a given distance the steeper is the gradient, and the steeper the gradient the stiffer will the air flow as wind, just as the speed of a stream depends upon the steep-ness of its fall. Air density is a factor, for the denser the air the less rapidly will it flow with a certain pressure gradient. Latitude is important in wind velocity, for it is a factor in the deflective effect of the earth's rotation, which is operative on all winds except those on the equator. Friction, of course, retards the flow of air to a greater degree over land and to a less degree over water.

The atmosphere always has its moving high and low places, as measured in inches by the barometer, which, for sake of illustration, may be compared with differences in elevations of the earth's surface. Air always tends to flow from a region of high pressure toward one of low pressure, just as water flows from highland to low-land. In the case of air, however,
this flow is usually very indirect,
because of deflections as the earth
rotates. With both air and water, gravity is constantly tending to create a state of equilibrium.

May Drop Shipping Bids.

Washington, June 8.—Indication was given at the shipping board that the bids received for the West Coast route might all be dropped because of the failure of the negotiators to meet minimum requirements set up by Chairman Lasker.

Compromise Offered

On Wage Differences With Bricklayers
New York, June 7.—Recommendation that striking bricklayers and employers compromise wage differences with a scale of $11 a day or $127 1/2 an hour, up to January 1, 1926 was made today by a conference of the committee of the public group of the building industry. The bricklayers who have been on a strike for more than three weeks, seek $12 a day and a two year wage agreement.

Turn Out Fine Violins.

Prague, June 8.—Favored by a natural love of music, a plentiful supply of the right kind of resonant wood, and deft craftsmanship, the violin making industry in Czechoslovakia is assuming an important position. Something like 4,500 home workers are engaged, and the instruments all are of high quality. One hundred and thirty-three thousand violins were turned out in 1922, beside 2,100 cellos and 1,200 double basses.

Golden Jubilees.

Pittsburg, June 8.—Said to be without precedent in the history of the Roman Catholic church in America, three Pittsburg clergymen Thursday celebrated the golden jubilee of their priesthood. Right Rev. Monsignor Martinyan, P.R., L.D., V.F., Rev. Daniel J. Devlin, P.R., L.D., and the Rev. P. J. Quilter, P. R., were ordained in St. Michael's seminary here fifty years ago Thursday.

$25 GOLD for a Slogan

LAST WEEK we announced that we had arrived and would put in a modern plant for the manufacture of high-grade Mayonnaise and Relish in Atlanta for this territory.

THIS WEEK we are busy with the installation of machinery and equipment, and while this is being done, we have a crew of salesmen out placing our products on the shelves of the grocers of Atlanta for Atlanta housewives. This supply is being drawn from Nashville.

NEXT WEEK we will begin operations in full capacity, and then we will begin to advertise in real earnest, telling you about the splendid qualities of our products, and in this advertising we will need a suitable slogan—a line or a sentence that will quickly identify HENARD'S PRODUCTS in the mind.

Good slogans are not hard; they are usually an expression which occurs to some person without any forethought. A few words to express what that person really thinks of the product in mind.

Henard's Mayonnaise and Henard's Relish

This may be your opportunity to earn $25.00 in gold for a moment's thought. Think of the product you wish to describe, try it if you can, first, then in a few simple words express an opinion.

Turn over in your mind the many popular slogans and see how easy it is to express your opinion in a very few words. For illustration:

"His Master's Voice"
"They Satisfy"—"The Ham What Am"
"There's a Reason"—"Good to the Last Drop"
"Eventually, Why Not Now?"—"Say It With Flowers"

This Slogan Contest is open to every one. There are no strings to it; you don't have to buy anything to try. You are simply selling us the child of your brain just as an author sells a book.

the dinner. This is so because of the strong appeal meat makes to the appetite and because of the satisfying results that follow from a meal based on meat. Meat and meat products always will play an important part in the diet. Habit and taste are partly responsible for this, but scientific facts show that habit and taste have not been blind leaders.

PROTEIN OF MEAT

IS OF HIGH QUALITY.

The chief claim of meat as a food rests on its protein. Protein is one of the main things that gives to all animals and plants the properties of their living tissue or protoplasm. If there is no protein there is no living tissue. Protein is needed to build new tissue and to repair worn-out tissue. Proteins differ in value in this respect. The reason for this is that proteins differ in the proportion of the different building stones, called amino acids by the chemist, which they contain. The animal proteins come nearest of having the same combination which exists in our bodies. The proteins of meat, then, are its chief claim to preferment, and there are none better and a few as good.

Some persons assert that only enough protein should be eaten to take care of the amount that we wear out each day. If the person is young and growing, more protein is needed for this growth, then in the case of one who has attained maturity. This accounts for the fact that feeders of animals give relatively more protein to the young, growing stock than to the mature animals that are being fattened. The minimum amount of protein is not the best amount of protein to be eaten, for we always prefer a factor or margin of safety in this, just as we do in the bridges that we build, or the trains we ride in, or the houses we live in. Dr. J. J. R. MacLeod, professor of physiology at the University of Toronto, has shown that those people who eat less protein than the average are less robust, mentally inferior, and more likely to suffer from those very diseases which are supposed to be due to overloading the body with useless waste products, than those who consume an average or excess amount. He considers an excess of protein over the minimum to be a factor of safety against disease.

HALF POUND OF MEAT DAILY ASSURES GOOD PROTEIN.

The eating of a half pound of meat per person per day will help assure good protein in the diet. This advice does not apply to infants and young children. One-half pound of meat from an average side of meat, however, will provide only 22 to 25 grams of edible protein. An average person needs from 60 to 125 grams a day. The first figure is for a low protein standard and the second for a high protein standard. This leaves plenty of room for protein from milk, eggs, fish, bread, beans, or other food that one may eat. In fact, one may eat more than half a pound of "average" meat a day and still have room for other foods.

CALORIES ARE NOT ALL-IMPORTANT.

As a source of calories or energy—sometimes also called heat—lean meat plays a less important part, but medium fat and fat cuts are very rich sources of this energy or calories. These calories are needed to keep the body going at its never-ending tasks, and to permit its doing the exercise and work which it may do each day. If one eats too little, he will grow thin, and if one eats too much, one will grow fat, or perhaps get tired of his food. In general, the appetite is a fairly safe guide to how much one should eat, if one pays attention to its advice and does not arouse a false desire for food by high seasoning and excessive use of appetizers. In addition to appetite, however, some knowledge of the kind of food eaten is needed to insure a wise selection. It should be borne in mind that although the total amount of calories is important they are only one of some six means of measuring the value of food, some of which are now considered to be of greater importance than calories.

Ford Gets Power Grant.

Washington, June 8.—The federal power commission has granted the Ford Motor company a license to develop power at the government "high" dam between Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn. Under the contract the company will pay $35,440 a year for its development privileges and will have power rights for fifty years.

SIBLEY ALLOWS OLIVER'S CLAIMS

Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of the United States district court, Friday granted two claims of $16,508.29 and $12,000, held against the bankrupt Oliver Oil company by Mrs. Charlotte Oliver and Mrs. Madeline G. Oliver, mother and wife, respectively, of Elmer Oliver, president of the defunct company, bringing to end the litigation which has intermittently occupied attention of the court for several months. The hearing was concluded Thursday, and Judge Sibley stepped up his decision in view of the impending sale of property of the company, which is scheduled for June 15.

Judge Sibley ruled that when a corporation seeks to raise capital to operate, sending its agents out to take original subscriptions to stock and they take contracts which parties to the contracts understand to be subscriptions to the company's original stock, officers of the company cannot fill such contracts with their own stock and take the proceeds.

An effort was made by Oliver, to stultify some time after stock sales were begun, to rectify the want of bookkeeping on part of himself and the company, Judge Sibley ruled. The purpose of the effort, he added, was to trace the separate stock transactions, charging to himself the stock for which the company had not got the proceeds. Judge Sibley declared he thought Mr. Oliver's efforts were honest and earnest and for the most part correct in their results.

"It is not easy to tell from the stock analysis or other documents whether the proceeds of particular contracts went to Mr. Oliver or to V. G. Collins, vice-president, but I hold that the management of Mr. Oliver's share in the stock had so far been committed to Mr. Collins as to at least put the burden of separation on Mr. Oliver, if not to charge him with liability for all that Mr. Collins did," the judge stated.

Mrs. Oliver's Note.
Judge Sibley ruled that the note of Mrs. Charlotte E. Oliver is a substitute for a number of others previously issued to Elmer Oliver. It was not disputed that the company got the money represented by each note. The trouble arises over the claim to offset the accountability of Elmer Oliver to the company, Judge Sibley declared. While the checks given by the company were those of Elmer Oliver and the notes first taken were payable to him, Mrs. Oliver claimed the money paid was hers, loaned to the company by her general agent, Oliver, by her authority, and that she was the real owner of the notes and when they were put in her name in the single note that was a mere recognition of her true rights.

"As to Mrs. Madeline Oliver's claims," the ruling set out, "there seems no doubt that the proceeds of the sale of her garage mortgage went to make the $7,500 and $2,000 notes which she claims. The loan in Florida of $7,500 was in the meanwhile made in Elmer Oliver's name, but her said property was validly pledged as security for it, and actually went to pay it, so I think the proceeds of this loan ought to be treated as hers. As to the $4,000 note, there is room for question as to whether it should belong to her or Mrs. Charlotte Oliver, but it was satisfactorily shown to be the property of one or the other, which is not any concern of the company, since they are both in court and satisfied."

NINTH WARDERS MEET ON MONDAY; YORK WILL SPEAK

The regular monthly meeting of the Ninth Ward Civic association will be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening at the Highland school on North avenue.

The principal speaker will be Councilman Harry York, who will address the meeting on the proposed central park. Other speakers include Alderman Oscar Williamson, Councilman Horace Russell and C. D. Knight.

High School Band Of Fostoria, Ohio, Wins Tournament

Chicago, June 8.—The high school band of Fostoria, Ohio, won the first prize in the National school band tournament, which has been in progress three days in connection with the National Music Teachers' convention here. Twenty-six bands competed here. Fostoria rated 34 out of a possible "perfect mark" of 40.

Other prizes and marks were awarded by the U. S. Marine corps band, and judge of the meet, as follows:

Harrison Tech, Chicago, $500 on a mark of 32.
Council Bluffs, Iowa, $300, 31.
Hyde Park, Chicago, $200, 30.
Ten bands were awarded $100 "runner-up" prizes. These were from Richmond Center, Wis.; New Castle, Pa.; Paw Paw, Mich.; Pittsburg, Pa.; Gary, Ind.; Evansville, Ind.; Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Louisville, Ky.; Rockford, Ill.; and Elk Horn, Wis.

SALE IS CONFIRMED OF ROME & NORTHERN

Sale of the Rome & Northern railway for $25,000 to the Georgia Development company of Rome, Ga., has been confirmed by Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley. The Rome & Northern railway was thrown into receivership several years ago, and its sale to satisfy creditors was ordered by Judge Sibley.

The first carload of California cantaloupes of the season was received Friday by Green and Milam, produce merchants, of Produce row. The shipments was disposed of several hours after its arrival here, the merchants reported.

Gutzon Borglum Describes Work On Big Memorial

Addressing the Civitan club of Atlanta at its weekly luncheon Friday, Gutzon Borglum answered those who are skeptical as to the feasibility of carving across the precipice of Stone mountain a panoramic picture of an army on the march and of carving out of the granite below the panorama the Memorial hall which is to be a part of the great memorial.

"It would be entirely feasible to carve the panorama without the special machinery which has been designed, and a picture of which appeared in Atlanta newspapers last Sunday," said Mr. Borglum.

"But the carving of the panorama without the work over a long period of years. Therefore, the machinery was designed to expedite the work, making possible its completion within six or seven years.

"This machinery was evolved after consultation with the ablest engineers in the world. It was designed by sixteen or seventeen of the ablest men in the country in this line of work.

Begin Carving Figures.
"We will begin the carving of the first figure, Robert E. Lee, before the machinery is installed, and this figure may be completed while the machinery is going up. Then as the work progresses it will be rapidly accelerated by the machinery, which will enable us to place fifteen or twenty men on a moving platform, at any point on the precipice where we want to put them."

Plans Are Made.
A committee to decide on permanent plans has been organized by the Builders' exchange and Master Builders' association, headed by W. J. Nolan, and the opening of the first tunnel, which will be completed in a few months. E. M. Hoot, of the Hood Brick company, who has been interested in the proposed ceramic department at Georgia Tech, announced that two carloads of brick to be used in constructing brick-layers at the Trades school. Other prominent builders also have announced that they were in favor of such a school.

In September a trades instruction department will be organized by the school, according to Mr. McGrath, will be open to both young and older men, thus giving an opportunity to such school. It was decided to hold a special reception meeting of the Personnel association at "Jaqueland" on Thursday, June 21.

Law Enforcement By Federal Agents Totals Huge Sum

New York, June 8.—Enforcement of prohibition in New York state by federal officers would cost $100,000,000 annually, according to a report of the United States attorney, J. P. Morgan, who declared today in a letter to Mayor Hylan, thanking him for his promise of co-operation from local police.

"There are 25,000 peace officers in New York state," Mr. Morgan wrote. "To duplicate this force would cost the government $100,000,000. If this were done in every state it would cost a billion dollars annually."

Accept your assurance of every possible co-operation. The future of the police officers of New York to actively enforce the federal prohibition act would stimulate and promote other crimes, such as assaults, disorderly conduct, public intoxication and similar crimes which have materially decreased since prohibition. "It is not only a matter of helping yourself. Law defiance is highly contagious and the weakening of law enforcement at one point weakens the entire structure."

"Governor Smith has already issued a warning, in which he said that repeal of the state law did not in the slightest degree lessen the responsibility of peace officers to enforce the Volstead act. I thank you for your promise to enforce this law in the same degree as other laws."

LOUISIANA BROKER FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

New Orleans, La., June 8.—Lawrence L. Prince, a broker operating on the New Orleans cotton exchange, filed a petition in bankruptcy late today, placing his liabilities at $82,576 with no assets.

The creditors include the First National and the City banks of Dyersburg, Tenn., whose claims of $21,000, and $17,000 are unsecured, the First National Bank of Ripley, Tenn., with an unsecured claim of $10,000, and several banks in New Orleans, New York and Chicago.

Prince had been operating here about three years.

SELF-CONFESSED BANK ABSCONDER FACES 2 CHARGES

Mobile, Ala., June 8.—J. M. Northrop, 33, self-confessed absconder of the First National Bank of Atmore, Ala., in jail here charged with additional embezzlement of $10,000 from the Merchants Bank of this city was served with a federal warrant today charging embezzlement of funds of a national bank. Northrop, in default of bail is occupying a cell with other prisoners at the county jail. The state authorities will try Northrop first and then turn him over to the federal court for trial.

King of England Denied Accounting By Court Justice

New York, June 7.—King George V of England was denied an accounting by Supreme Court Justice Vernon Day today in a claim of the Remington Arms company against Manning, Maxwell & Moore, Inc., growing out of war-time munitions contracts. The British sovereign entered the case as assignee of a claim against Manning, Maxwell & Moore by the Remington firm.

It was alleged that in 1915 the assignor entered a contract to supply 2,000,000 Enfield rifles to the British government at a cost of $60,000,000. It was held that a larger plant was needed and defendants were alleged to have agreed to furnish the Remington company with machinery and materials necessary for new works at Eddystone at 5 per cent above cost to the defendants as the defendants' agents. The accounting was sought on the ground that the defendants made more than 5 per cent on the transaction.

County Officers Remain Neutral On Fee System

Savannah, Ga., June 8.—(Special.) The County Officers Association of Georgia decided today to remain neutral quiet on the fee system, the salary system and the proposal to suggest local option for each county to decide on fee or salary systems of payment of its county officers.

The question, which was warmly debated yesterday, was settled in executive session this morning for strict neutrality.

A miniature edition of last summer's hot fight between Brunswick and Savannah, then over the state port location matter, was staged today. Chief Justice R. B. Russell yesterday invited it to meet here as it has done for several years.

The Tybee highway is to be opened to the island June 21; the work on the St. Simons bridge and road is well under way. These items were cited in the rivalry of invitations. On Savannah today urged the association to meet here next year and emphasized Tybee as Georgia's beach playground.

Officers were chosen as follows: W. L. Grayson, clerk Chatham county, president; W. C. Walton, ordinary of Bartow, vice-president; Cleveland Cooper, of Milledgeville, secretary-treasurer. Judge T. H. Jeffries, of Fulton, declined to stand for vice-president. All three officers chosen were re-elected by howling votes over their several protests.

Congressman R. Lee Moore, of the First district, in a vigorous speech before the association today defended the fee system as having served well for many years.

Reports of the meeting of the various groups, composed of ordinaries, clerks, etc., were heard and the body went on record in favor of a law fixing the compensation of two physicians and one lawyer in lunacy trials.

A resolution to fight the Fullbright bill, to place specific tax collections in the hands of the state, was adopted. The afternoon was spent on the "cherchant for a trip about the harbor. Many of the delegates will remain over at Tybee for the week-end.

ROSE COVERED ISLAND DISPUTED AT LAUSANNE

Bucharest, June 8.—On the agenda of the Lausanne conference is an item which has baffled the world's statesmen who are trying to re-establish peace in the Near East. It is the question of the "Kadi of Adakaleh." At first nobody knew whether Kadi of Adakaleh was the name of a man, a geographical term, a state of mind, a mystic phrase, or a specie of banana. Inquiry by the peace delegates, however, showed that Adakaleh is a delightful little island in the Aegean sea near the "Iron Gates," with only a few thousand Mohammedan inhabitants, who grow roses and extract the essence from the leaves. The island is the only Turkish possession on the Danube as boats pass through the Iron Gates.

Janet Pasha claims Adakaleh for Turkey, while Rumanian insists it is hers by reason of the Trianon treaty. Before the treaty Adakaleh was in Hungarian possession, although the Budapest government always recognized the nominal sovereignty of the sultan over the island.

The victories of Kemal Pasha re-awakened Turkish nationalism among the peaceful rose and tobacco planters on the picturesque "Isle of Roses," and they sent a petition to Angora demanding that the island be returned to the nominal sovereignty of the sultan over the island.

Mustapha Kemal dispatched a kadi, or judge, to Adakaleh, and the Rumanian government, suspecting nothing and regarding him as only a harmless Turkish visitor, granted a visa without warrants. Now, however, Pasha pretends that the granting of the visa is equivalent to the recognition of Turkey's rights to the island. When Rumanian authorities learned that the newly-arrived kadi had taken over the administration of the island they immediately asked him to leave Adakaleh, and, with all honors due to Kemal's governor, the kadi has very politely been deported from Rumanian territory.

Miss Emma Serl, a teacher in the Junior College of Kansas City, has just completed a three-volume history of that city, which will be used in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades of the public schools.

TITLES ROUSE WRATH OF CANADIAN GROWER

Moose Jaw, Sask., June 8.—Charged with making a seditious speech at a meeting of grain growers last January, Fred McIntyre, a farmer of the Royal George School district, south of Caron, Sask., was recently committed for trial here. He was released on bail.

McIntyre is alleged to have made the seditious remarks during a discussion on titles, and is charged with having said:

"I count myself as good a man as King George. I would not be scared to challenge him to a foot race, to wrestle, or to fight, although he is fed up in a box stall on choice food and my way, I would take a club and stand at the border and knock the brains out of every one that came into the country with a rifle. I would make no mistake about it, as I know where to hit them."

DR. SANFORD SALYER JOINS AGNES SCOTT

Dr. Sanford M. Salyer has been appointed to succeed the late Dr. Armstrong as the head of the Agnes Scott English department. Dr. Salyer was awarded a Ph. D. degree at Amherst college, where he won honors during his stay there as a student. He comes to Agnes Scott from Sweet Briar college, Virginia, where he was a leader in educational fields. Dr. Salyer served also as professor of English at the University of Georgia for a period of eight years. Before his connection with Sweet Briar he taught in the Oklahoma City college for a number of years.

JACOB H. WILENSKY HEADS SHOE FINDERS

Detroit, Mich., June 8.—Jacob Wilensky, of Atlanta, was elected president, and Indianapolis was chosen as the 1924 meeting place by the National Shoe Finders' association at the concluding business session of its annual convention here today.

Other officers elected were Ed J. Bosler, of Chicago, vice president; George A. Knapp, of St. Louis, secretary; and Peter Nutz, of Indianapolis, treasurer.

The association's members supplies material to 75,000 shoe repair men and all them are estimated to have done an aggregate business of $375,000,000 last year.

LUTHERANS TO ELECT OFFICERS ON MONDAY

The regular semi-annual business meeting of the Men's Brotherhood of the English Lutheran church of the Redeemer will be held Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Officers for the ensuing six months will be elected.

The meeting will be preceded by supper served by the ladies of the church under the direction of Mrs. C. L. Speed.

Did Winter leave you with that tired feeling?

WINTER'S confinement, with its lack of pure sunshine, shows its effect in Spring. To be underweight, easily tired, listless, and have a poor appetite, indicates a weakened condition of the blood. Nature must have help—your blood is minus fighting strength! More red cells, mean cleaner, purer, richer blood. S. S. S. builds red-blood-cells. It builds blood-power. That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights like a bolt. It fights skin eruptions! It bottles today!

Street Car Man Gains Forty Pounds By Taking Tanlac

G. W. DUNCAN

"I am recommending Tanlac to others now because I know from my own experience how quickly it ends stomach trouble and what a great tonic and body builder it is," recently said George W. Duncan, 16 Hendrix Ave., Atlanta, Ga., for eight years motorman for the Georgia Railway & Power Co.

"For two years I couldn't eat the lightest meal without suffering from gas and heartburn. I got weak and run down, with a dull, tired feeling all the time, and fell off from my normal weight of one hundred and eighty pounds to a scant one hundred and forty."

"Tanalac has fixed me up so I can eat the heartiest meal now without suffering a bit from gas or pains. I have strength and energy to spare and am back to my normal weight again. Tanlac certainly has done me a world of good."

Tanalac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanalac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.—(adv.)

Solitaire Diamond Engagement Rings

A solitaire diamond ring is the recognized emblem of betrothal when worn by a woman on the third finger of the left hand.

Diamond engagement rings are also quite popular in cluster settings and in combination with other precious stones.

It is always correct to give a diamond as an engagement gift.

This custom never changes. Diamonds have been used for this purpose since time immemorial.

We are headquarters for Engagement Rings of Beauty and Quality.

SIX ARE INJURED IN AUTO CRASHES

Automobile accidents during Friday night brought a toll of six injured, none of them seriously.

The worst hurt was Miss Anna Cook, of 82 East Georgia avenue, who steered her automobile into the rear of an American Railway Express truck at Pryor and Decatur streets Friday morning. She was taken to the Grays hospital by Officer W. D. McGee. Surgeons stated she had been severely bruised and cut.

Mrs. Paul Stanford, who was riding in the car with Miss Cook, escaped bruises and cuts. Her injuries were not severe enough to require treatment at the hospital.

Others hurt in accidents were J. J. Mann, 712 Forrest avenue; E. G. Walton, R. F. D. No. 1; E. G. Walton, who lives on the Stone mountain road; and a negro, Cliff Ray.

Mann and Cheshire were injured at Pryor and Decatur streets Friday morning when a white way post was torn down as the result of a collision between their machines.

Walton was hurt in a collision between his automobile and a truck, driven by the negro named Ray, at Highland avenue and Argard street. Walton's automobile was practically wrecked.

Alumni of Tech Today to Recall Years Long Ago

Today is alumni day at Georgia Tech when hundreds of former graduates of the institution will meet to look over again years of the past.

The day officially begins with a big alumni meeting at the Tech Y. M. C. A. at 10 o'clock. This is the official gathering of the Georgia Tech Alumni Association, and all old Tech men are urged to be present. Many matters of importance will be discussed. Chief among them is the matter of selection of a new president for the association. A new secretary is to be employed, and the general policy of the association mapped out.

Alumni Luncheon.
At 12 o'clock there will be a luncheon for the alumni at the Capital City Hotel. Plans included a barbecue, but this idea was abandoned when it was learned that a barbecue would interfere with the afternoon program.

A sun drill will stand on the campus in front of the administration building, will be presented in the afternoon by the class of 1908. George McCartney will make the presentation for the class.

At 2:30 o'clock there will be a four-minute game between the faculty and chosen members from the alumni. On the one hand, the faculty has the advantage of having practiced together several times. On the other hand, the alumni have in their ranks many former stars, such as the Hill brothers, Tip Wheeler, the Montague brothers and others.

Big Baseball Game.
At 3:30 o'clock comes the baseball game between the Tech varsity and the strong team from the University of North Carolina. North Carolina has just defeated the Trinity team, which claimed championship of the South. Tech had a very successful season, so the two teams appear about equal in strength.

At 8 o'clock the senior banquet will be held at the Georgian Terrace. This will be the occasion of Dr. John S. Coon's farewell address. At this time a portrait of Dr. Coon, by Salzweiner, will be presented to the school.

The banquet will mark the last official gathering of the senior class. Practically every one of the seniors will be present to do honor to Tech and to Dr. Coon. Dr. D. M. Smith is to preside as toastmaster.

The Marionettes, the dramatic organization of Georgia Tech students, will give a special performance of "Booth Tarkington's comedy, 'Clarences' at the Atlanta Woman's club auditorium for the entertainment of the returning alumni of the institution on Monday afternoon following the graduation exercises in the morning. The performance will be free to all alumni.

BRITISH AD MEN GIVEN SOME IDEA OF FAST TRAVEL

Philadelphia, Pa., June 8.—British advertising men who attended the convention of the Associated Advertising clubs of the world at Atlantic City, gained some impression of American railroading today when they were brought from the seashore to the Delaware river at a speed of more than a mile a minute. Leaving Atlantic City at 8:55 a. m., daylight-saving time on a special train on the Atlantic City railroad, operated by the Philadelphia and Reading railway, the ad men arrived in Camden, N. J., opposite Philadelphia at 9:46, covering the 45 1/2 miles in 51 minutes. This is four minutes faster than the Reading's regular schedule for some of its express trains on its seashore line.

New Statements Enliven School Board Battle

The controversy between members of the board of education and Mayor Walter A. Sims, growing out of the former's action in appropriating $350 with which to defray expenses of Superintendent Willis A. Sutton on a tour of inspection of western schools and the latter's accusations of "reckless extravagance" against the board, was enlivened Friday when Mayor Sims issued a hot reply to a statement from School Commissioner W. L. McCalley, and Mrs. Julian O'Keefe Nelson and W. W. Gaines, board members, made public statements defending the action of the board.

Commissioner Gaines denied that the board had been extravagant in appropriating the funds, and stated that the mayor did not raise a "great howl" when city council appropriated $10,000 for entertainment of the national convention of Elks. The appropriation for paying Mr. Sutton's expenses was much more than that than the appropriation to entertain the Elks' Mr. Gaines stated.

Says He Used Veto.
The mayor's statement in reply to that of Commissioner McCalley which charged the executive with "playing politics," denied that similar appropriations by council to defray expenses of other city officials had been approved by the city's chief executive. On the other hand the mayor declared he had vetoed appropriations by council to send the chief of the fire and police departments on inspection trips.

His statement follows:
"I am somewhat surprised at my good friend, Bill McCalley, taking any charges against the system of operating the Atlanta schools to himself personally. I have often heard that Bill was the whole cheese in the school board and now I am beginning to believe he thinks it."

"My criticism was not of any individual but of a system in effect in the city government which permits practically a volunteer board to make expenditures of the people's money illegally, and no one employed by the people to look after their interests is allowed to object to such expenditures."

"I am informed by some members of the education board that this money was voted by the superintendent's expenses to a convention, which, under the city attorney's ruling, is illegal. I have consistently vetoed every council resolution appropriating money to send department heads to conventions. My good friend McCalley charges that I approved resolutions sending the fire and police chiefs to conventions. This is not true and I deny the allegation."

"The only remaining charge my friend makes against me is that I am playing politics, and such a heinous accusation as this deeply grieves me. But if his charge that I am playing politics is trying to protect the people against a corrupt system, the expenditures are well founded, then I plead guilty and accuse Mr. McCalley with playing the devil."

"If the people could see the reports of increased expenses in the school department in the last few years, there would be a revolution in the department. I want to repeat that there is no man more deeply interested in Atlanta's public schools than I, but in government as well as in private life, economy should be practiced."

Mr. Nelson's Statement.
Mrs. Nelson's statement in defense of the board's economy policy follows:
"I voted against paying Superintendent Sutton's expenses because I was informed the city attorney said this would be illegal. Personally I like Mr. Sutton, but the taxpayers must be remembered when public appropriations are being made. I hear that 150 teachers, who make not half as much as Mr. Sutton, will pay their own way to this convention in California."

"I sympathize with Mayor Sims in his efforts to get Atlanta out of the financial hole. I know the mayor hated to see the water rates raised the other day, but the people ought to understand the situation."

"I do not agree that the board of education should be abolished, but I would favor the placing of the mayor and one councilman on the board as ex-officio members. We need liaison with the council."

"Superintendent Sutton is a very valuable man to Atlanta. He is a great booster for the city and all Georgia; is a magnetic speaker and a great mixer, and he is making a good superintendent."

LAST SERVICES TODAY FOR J. FRED LEWIS

Funeral services for J. Fred Lewis, well known Atlanta newspaper man, who died Thursday morning after a protracted illness, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Rev. J. Sprole Lyons will preach the funeral sermon, and interment will be in the family mausoleum at North View cemetery.

pallbearers will be Eugene Black, Sr., Hugh Dorsey, William H. Glenn, Linton Hopkins, Oscar Davis, Sr., and Clark Howell.

Mr. Lewis was one of the best members of the newspaper and advertising fraternity in Atlanta, where he had lived practically all his life. A graduate of the University of Georgia, he began his career as a reporter on The Constitution. Later he was city editor of the Albany Herald and the Savannah Morning News.

He then returned to The Constitution and held the positions of capital reporter, city editor and chief editorial writer. Several years ago he retired, forming the advertising firm of Lewis & Senbrook, which later was changed to Lewis & Coffee.

Mr. Lewis retired from active business about two years ago owing to serious illness, though his death was directly attributed to a case of pneumonia he contracted six months ago, from which, in his weakened condition, he was unable to recover.

JUNIOR CHAMBER ASKS POWER COMPANY AUDIT

That it may determine the actual facts in reference to the expense of operating Atlanta's street cars and the rate of income upon the invested capital in the city of Atlanta, the junior chamber of commerce in a resolution adopted at a meeting Thursday, asks that an independent audit of the affairs of the Georgia Railway and Power company be made by city council.

The resolution also included a recommendation that the council give careful consideration to the petition of the power company, now pending before that body, advocating the enactment of ordinances that will improve traffic conditions in the city, and enable the company to extend its service.

"Travel by street car, jitney bus, automobiles and on foot has been most unsatisfactory to all parties concerned in the past few months," the resolution set forth.

ATLANTA FEDERAL RESERVE OFFICERS ENTERTAIN HAMLIN

Officers of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta entertained in honor of Charles S. Hamlin, of Washington, D. C., member of the federal reserve board, at dinner Thursday evening at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Among those present were Charles S. Hamlin, Joseph A. McCord, John K. Ortle, J. A. McCrary, Lindsey Hopkins, Milton W. Bell, Joseph M. Slatery, Robert S. Parker, Charles Ryan, L. G. Alderson, J. L. Campbell, Robert Alston, Silas Davis, Ward Albertson, James Alexander, Eugene R. Black, Snowden McCaughy, W. W. Banks, H. Lane Young, Henry Kennedy, H. W. May, William C. Wardlaw, W. H. LENIENCY IS ASKED FOR WYNAN'S SLAYER

Contending that his mentality is low, that he believed he acted in self-defense, and that he was not granted sufficient time prior to his trial for conferences with his attorneys, lawyers representing Joe Gore, of Heard county, on Friday plead for commutation of his death sentence before the prison commission.

Gore was convicted of slaying J. H. Wynans last summer. His execution date has been set for July 13 and a rehearing denied by the supreme court.

The commission reserved decision on the case Friday.

FOUR MACON BOYS HELD FOR PARENTS

Four Macon boys who were found in Ridge avenue early Friday morning are being held at police station for their parents.

The boys are P. S. Gore, 15-year-old son of W. S. Gore; Fritz Jones, 10-year-old son of Mrs. J. M. Jones; George Lewis Jones, 17-year-old son of Mrs. J. R. Jones, and C. E. Menton, 18-year-old son of H. Menton.

They told the police that they rode as far as Jackson with a man whose name they never learned. "We were coming to Atlanta in hopes of getting jobs," one of the boys stated.

WIMPY IS PLANNING BIG ATLANTA HOTEL

W. E. Wimpy, new owner of the property on the northwest corner of Williams and Cain streets, is negotiating with large hotel interests for erection of a 15-story hotel on part of the site.

Mr. Wimpy disclosed tentative plans to erect a large garage on part of the property last Sunday. The garage will be five stories high and will front on both streets, he said.

The proposed hotel, if built, will contain 200 rooms with baths and will cost approximately $330,000.

NEW STORE LEASED BY J. B. FALLAIZE

J. B. Fallaize, proprietor of the Linen Store, at Broad and Alabama streets, has leased a store in the Studebaker building, at Peachtree and

Harris. The lease, extending over a period of several years, aggregates $72,000 in rentals.

The lease was handled through the Burdette Realty company, which will convert the Studebaker building into an office building.

ORDINANCE COMMITTEE MEETING POSTPONED

Action on proposed ordinances by Alderman W. B. Duval prohibiting sales of fish on the streets of Atlanta and providing for inspection of restaurants and eating houses by the city health department before a permit to operate is issued were held up Friday owing to lack of a quorum at the regular meeting of the ordinance committee, to which the measure had been referred by council last Monday.

Another ordinance proposed by

Councilman W. Garland Cooper requiring boarding houses occupying second story quarters to keep unlatched all screen doors, was also to have been discussed by the committee.

Chairman W. B. Hartsfield, of the ordinance committee, stated that he would call a special meeting of the committee next week to consider these matters before the next meeting of general council on Monday, June 18.

MACON MAN HEADS OIL SUPERINTENDENTS

J. C. Matthews, of Macon, Ga., was unanimously elected to the presidency of the Interstate Oil Mill Superintendents' association at its final session Friday afternoon at the city auditorium. Other officers named were G. D. Hambright, of Kansas, Missouri, vice president, and J. C. Matthews, of Macon, Ala., secretary and treasurer.

The annual convention was brought to a close following an address by Mr. Morgan on the value of convention gatherings to the mill superintendents.

The meeting was featured by an exhibition of oil mill machinery of every description by firms from all parts of the country, including many Atlanta firms, under the auspices of the Oil Mill Superintendents' association.

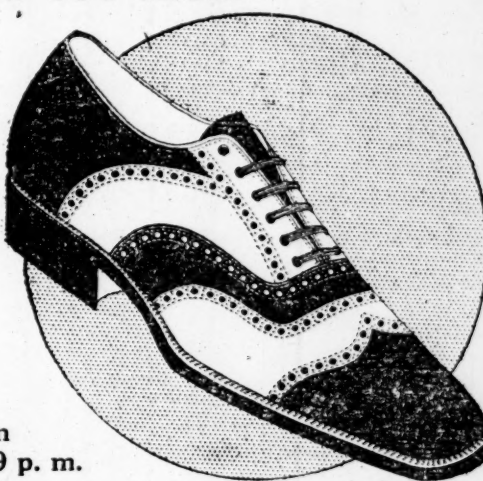

The delegates were guests of honor at an elaborate dinner at the Ansley hotel Thursday night and were entertained at a theater party Wednesday night. The convention will convene here again next June.

From Standpoints of Absolute Justice and Economic Wisdom

Discussing editorially the petition of the Georgia Railway and Power Company to City Council, setting forth a constructive plan for solving Atlanta's present and future transportation problem, the Atlanta Constitution has this to say:

"The necessity of this encouragement (of the Company by the community) is more understandable when one realizes that the street car company has already spent millions of dollars in paving the streets of the city, that a portion of its annual gross income goes to the city and that after 1925 a full 3 per cent of the gross income of the company will go into the city treasury. This is by franchise agreement.

"The company, therefore, is entitled to the encouragement and the co-operation of the people from the standpoint of absolute justice, aside from the more selfish, but even more important, standpoint of economic wisdom.

"Analyzing the great problem, therefore, in the interest of everybody, in the interest of fairness and justice to everybody and in the light of reason and economic wisdom, isn't this a good time for Atlanta to settle her transportation problem, secure dependable service for her unserved sections, more adequate service for sections where the service today is inadequate—and in a spirit of co-operation that has two sides, settle this problem by securing now a thoroughly dependable service that shall meet the requirements of the day in Atlanta?

"This is what the people want; it is what they are entitled to have. And now is the psychological moment to bring about such adjustments."

You are invited to study carefully and IMPARTIALLY the plan discussed by The Constitution editorial and to pass judgment on it solely in the public interest. If you have not received a copy of this program we will be glad to send you one.

ADAMS REPAIRS G.O.P. MACHINERY

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, June 8.—With hardy re-establishing in the republican party organization, National Chairman John T. Adams has started the task of overhauling the political machinery for the approaching presidential campaign.

Regional conferences with national and state committees at central points throughout the country will be held first. The New England meeting will be at Boston next Tuesday, with national committee and state committees from the six New England states attending. Others will follow at Chicago, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Denver and San Francisco.

"At these conferences plans for coordinating the efforts of the national committee at the various state organizations in the work preliminary to next year's campaign will be discussed," Adams said Thursday. "The purpose is to have organization affairs in the best possible shape when they are turned over to the new national committee which will be elected at the national convention of the party in 1924."

Reiterating his appeal for the world court in a letter to Bishop Thomas F. Gailor of the Episcopal church, President Harding took evening Thursday to reassure the Adams senate faction that entry into the court would in no way surrender any of the advantages and independence the United States enjoys.

Republican opponents of the court still hold to their original views but most of them believe reservations regarding this government's intention of keeping out of the league of nations will overcome the major objection.

Senator Fess of Ohio, administration senator after a trip through the west, reported a general fear that joining the court would mean affiliation with the league. But he said that reservations would allay this apprehension.

President Harding is understood to be willing to accept the suggested reservations. While Secretary Hughes would prefer to have the protocol improved without qualifications other than those suggested by himself, he will abide by Harding's decision and submit to such action as will dispose of the senatorial fears.

This announcement has served to quiet the demands for a reorganization of the republican national committee.

One Big Problem.

One of the big problems to be discussed at the regional conferences is that of greater representation for women. The democratic national committee includes a committee and a committee women from each state. The republicans have several women on the executive committee of the national committee but no general representation by states. Women are demanding equal representation similar to that accorded their sex by the democrats, and it is likely that a proposal for equal membership will be acted upon at the regular meeting of the national committee next December. If favorable action is taken, the new women members would be chosen at the national convention and assist in the 1924 campaign. Mrs. Modell McCormick, a member of the executive committee and a daughter of Mark Hanna, is leading the demand for the innovation.

Prohibition also will be discussed thoroughly, as the local temperance action of New York and the Wisconsin assembly has made this a pressing issue. For the most, however, the conferences will deal with the strictly organizational side of the campaign preparation, because the issues are already defined at the national convention.

Mother of Girl Eleven Years Old Receives Degree

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

New York, June 8.—Katherine Clay, 11 years old, may now get down to her own exams in the public school, relieved of her daily duty of getting her mother away on time to classes at Barnard college, Columbia university. Katherine's mother, Mrs. Katherine, Bouton Clay, of Newark, N. J., has just received her A. B. degree from Barnard, to the no little maternal pride of the daughter whose duty it was to go up to the entire family team, all in addition to her own studies at the public school.

Mother of school age are quite a trial, says Katherine. "You have to see that they're pretty up on time to the neighbor's children's mothers and you have to sit them right down to their home work and make 'em do it when the neighbor mothers are coming over the phone to come and play bridge. And on mornings when it's more to lie about you have to get 'em up and rattle them out of the notion of going absent from class for a day."

But there's fine satisfaction when at the end of the semester mother brings home a good report card and an Eplus in department. And there comes a glorious sense of having done an important duty in life and it well seems as if she had done it. Katherine's mother has kept her in with her books and diploma and all of a bubble with the joyous news: "School's out! And I passed!"

Daughter Gets Credit.

Little Katherine Clay's mother gives her much of the credit. She studied at Vassar until 1909 when she left college, still lacking two years of her course, to become the bride of Katherine's son, Clifford Clay, a writer. If Katherine had been present then, she probably would have kept her mother right on at her studies, for Mrs. Clay's education became the central idea of the little girl's thoughts as soon as she was old enough to think about it. There were other children after Katherine—John, now eight, and Richard, who is six.

It was quite a scheme of co-operation that Katherine, father and daughter, evolved for the maximum education of the family. Mother helped Katherine, who helped mother, both took a hand in getting John under way in school and all took part in the gradual preparation of little Richard's mind for the beginning of his book-learning next fall.

Studying at Home.

Mrs. Clay did some of her studying at home and much in the tube and subway, for it is quite a ride when her own exams are out of the way, little Katherine will get after her mother again. She thinks it would be a fine idea for mother to study Italian this summer and Katherine may send her back to Barnard to get her master's degree.

Poo Clay naturally doesn't figure in all this. Being a little girl's pop, it goes without saying that he knows everything. Ask him anything, why does the wind blow and where? Why is the cat's meow? He can tell you.

ADVENTURERS REACH
SOUTH SEA ISLANDS

Pago Pago, American Samoa, June 8.—The American barkentine Narwhal, manned by a company of "gentlemen adventurers" seeking stirring life and motion picture films in the South Seas, recently arrived at Apia, British Samoa. The party will proceed for New Caledonia, the Ellice islands, the New Hebrides, the Solomon islands, New Guinea and Samoa.

SCHOLARS MAKE FILMS FOR VISUAL EDUCATION

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Chicago, June 8.—Motion pictures, with the scenarios written by some of the most learned scholars of this age, are now carrying lessons in history, nature, health, sanitation, geography and citizenship to thousands of school children. The subjects are written, directed and filmed by the Society for Visual Education, and distributed to more than 10,000 schools and other institutions in the United States.

The society, founded and tutored by some of the most prominent educators and scientists in the country, today has an assortment of films that run into the hundreds, each devoted to a special fundamental school subject.

"We have been immeasurably successful in the ideal which prompted our organization, that our plans have proved worthy and sound," said Professor F. R. Moulton, of the University of Chicago, secretary of the society and widely known scientist and inventor. "We believed the most hopeful remedy for existing conditions was in the wide extension of visual education. Psychologists have told us that 85 per cent of our thinking is in terms of visual image. The experience of every one of us confirms the statement. Of all the various means of visual education, motion pictures are proving the most important, and until but recently, the least used. They are the most important because life and the processes essential to life are dynamic and in motion—a static world is dead."

The film work of the Junior and American Red Cross has been entrusted to us, and the International Health board, the W. C. T. U., and numerous organizations, witnessing the results of this education, are calling upon us to film subjects for them. State departments of education, welfare organizations, civic and commercial associations, and particularly the schools, are co-operating. The former in a number of states are having the films outright for state distribution, while others serve as a medium for films obtained from the society.

"Visual education has not been passed upon the commercial motion picture. Our work does not seek to amuse but to translate into realities what often are only words. Neither do we propose to displace text books, models, maps or any other educational means, but to supplement them. Our subjects are filmed for universal instruction. What may be too advanced for a pupil today, three years hence will be just as good. Our subjects are made to fit the time of need, and our machines so built that any part of the picture can be stilled and a teacher dwell for any length of time on a subject. The camera having the advantage of position, it permits the pupil to observe from every angle."

The reels dealing with the study of nature are in the greatest demand, according to Professor Moulton. "All of the subjects are treated as systematically as books are written. Professor Moulton explains and demonstrates the most efficient and important links in the entire system and that this condition is largely credited by those who have watched its growth to the splendid work of Governor Wellborn and Mr. McCord."

Tribute Paid to Leaders Of Atlanta Reserve Bank

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

New York, June 8.—After many encores and enough bows to give an acrobat a crick in the spine, the majority of the theatrical producers have left the stage for the summer and those who remain are in danger of being trampled flat by the pole of the falling curtain. Four more shows now admit they are closing at the end of this week and quite a list of others will run on their nerve if they run at all to the end of the week ending. All of the "Bombo" finishes; Jane Cowell's "Romeo and Juliet"; George Fawcett's "The Sign of the Cross"; "Whispering Wires," the murder-on-the-telephone mystery play, will rest content with a run of 355 times, and the revival of "The School for Scandal" by the Players club's all-star cast was only booked for one week anyway, with a $10 top price for the opening night and a $5 tariff for the rest of its terse engagement.

Nobody beyond the confidence of the house treasurer could be trusted to say how long the other productions will remain available to out-of-town sightseers and sound-listeners who take seriously the advertisements of the theatre as a summer resort. It can only be reported that certain shows are still here and apparently will be here for some time, the same being:

List of Plays:

Musical Plays: "Caroline," "Blossom Time," "Dew Drop Inn," "Up She Goes," "Wildflower," "The Follies," "Jack and Jill," "Little Nellie Kelly," "Music Box Revue," and "Adrienne." Comedies: "We All" with Cyril Maude; "May the 3d," by Rachel Crother; "Abie's Irish Rose," "Seventh Heaven," "Not So Fast," "Give and Take," "Give and Take," "The Devil's Disciple," by Shaw; "You and I," "Zander," with Alice Brady, "So This is London," "Merton of the Movies," and "Cold Feet."

Grew Requested To Prevent Break At Peace Parley

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Lausanne, June 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—Joseph Q. Grew, the chief American observer at the Near East peace conference, again has been asked to use his good offices in an endeavor to prevent a rupture of the conference, as he did in the Turco-Greek crisis. The Turks and the allies seem to be without hope of settling the Ottoman debt problem among themselves, but feel that Mr. Grew, because of the American disinterestedness, can do much to bring the two parties together. Talk regarding the Chester concession has been renewed, but the most reliable information obtainable is that the main interest of the United States in this matter is the establishment of broad underlying principles, like the open door and recognition of the concessions in treaties only when their validity is undisputed. This doctrine may affect the French railroad contract, which the Turks assert is invalid because the Ankara government has not ratified it.

Concession questions, however, seem nearer settlement, for it is said the Turks contemplate offering the French a substitute for the Anatolian railroad grant.

Settlement of the debt problem was rendered more difficult because of receipt of instructions by Ismet from Ankara to not to abandon the Turkish position. The Turks maintain that if the Lausanne treaty is to contain affirmation of Turkey's debt obligations it should also provide some relief for Turkey in connection with the payment of debt interest.

Presidents' Club
TO HEAR TRAFFIC
PROBLEM TALKS

A special meeting of the Presidents' club of Atlanta has been called for Thursday for the purpose of discussing transportation and traffic conditions now existing in this city.

The principal speaker will be H. M. Atkinson, chairman of the board of directors of the Georgia Railway and Power company, whose subject will be "A Constructive Plan for Solving Atlanta's Present and Future Transportation Problem." The members also will discuss problems and complications that have arisen recently concerning traffic. The call for the meeting was issued by President Mel R. Wilkinson, who urged all members to be present. The meeting will be held in room 123 at the Piedmont hotel and will be informal. Dinner will be served.

TEN ARE INJURED
IN RUSH TO FLEE
FROM BURNING CAR

Cleveland, O., June 8.—Ten persons, five of them women, were injured late today in an attempt to make their exit from a street car which was struck by lightning during a thunderstorm. More than 100 passengers, homebound, were thrown into a frenzy and every window in the car was broken in the mad rush to escape flames burst from the motorist's vestibule. The injured were able to go to their homes after first aid treatment.

The storm wrought havoc in all sections of the city. Edward Paul, 13, was fatally injured, when a live wire blew against him as he walked along a pavement near his home.

Millionaire Widow
Angered at Marriage
Of Crawford Hill, II.

Denver, Colo., June 8.—Mrs. Crawford Hill, widow of the late millionaire Crawford Hill, and social leader of Denver for years, is angered at the marriage in Paris of her son, Crawford Hill, II., to Ann Elizabeth Kaufmann, daughter of the millionaire banker, Louis G. Kaufmann, of New York.

A radiogram received from Mrs. Hill, who is returning from Paris, states that she refuses to recognize her daughter-in-law and considers her son "disgraced."

Disposition of her husband's fortune is left entirely in the hands of Mrs. Hill, there being no provision in the will for the two sons. It is not known whether the irate mother intends to cut off her son's allowance because of his marriage.

Dry Leader Passes.

Seattle, Wash., June 8.—George D. Conger, 66, head of the Anti-Saloon league in the state of Washington, died here Thursday after a brief illness. He was prominent nationally in prohibition work.

Widow Given Medals.

New York, June 8.—Distinguished service medals for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services rendered during the world war were presented by Major General Bullard to Mrs. Charles Edgar, widow of the late Charles Edgar, who was a colonel in the army engineers corps.

When Hearts Command

Hector nodded and puffed hard at his pipe. He, too, was vastly perplexed.

"Where are they staying?" Hugo asked.

"Who—Ardeyne and Alice?"

"Of course. Who did you think I meant?"

"At the Schweizerhof, Ardeyne said."

"Then I shall write and tell Alice that I think of her," Hugo announced.

"She's an ungrateful daughter!"

Gaunt threw him a dark look. "Please don't forget that she doesn't even know you're supposed to be her father," he said.

Hugo's expression was subtly stern. He favored his friend with one of those sly sideways glances of his which told so little, yet conveyed an impression of infinite wisdom.

"I shall sign it 'Uncle John,' of course," he said. "Nevertheless, that

MRS. COFFMAN ILL SEVEN YEARS

Saved from an Operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sidell, Ill.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side, which was almost unbearable, and I could not even let the bed clothing rest on my body at night. I had been sick for seven years, but not so bad until the last eighteen months, and had become so run-down that I cared for nobody, and would rather have died than live. I couldn't do my work without help, and the doctors told me that an operation was all there was left. I would not consent to that, so my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house, and when my two little girls reach womanhood I intend to teach them to take it. I am never too busy to tell some suffering sister of my help, and you can use my name and letter to spread the good news of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine."—Mrs. I. M. COFFMAN, R. B. 2, Sidell, Ill.

doesn't alter my right to tell her what I think of her. Even in these days a father has a few rights."

Gaunt's expression grew a little darker. He sat down in the chair deserted by Jean, leaned his elbows on the stone table, and puffed hard, indeed, at his troublesome pipe. Here, again, was this thing which had so worried Jean—Hugo's cool assumption of fatherhood. It must be scotched once and for all, else there might be rocks ahead. No one can forget the demands of the future. Gaunt pointed to the chair on the other side of the table.

"Sit down, Hugo. I want to talk to you."

Hugo slipped furtively into the chair, in a defiant schoolboy manner. Argument was written large all over his work little face. Gaunt, who knew him of old, must have realized that he was in one of his peculiarly stubborn moods; but Gaunt, too, could be stubborn, and in the long run it was the stubbornness of the child with Hugo Smarle. A word or frown from the beloved idol had always brought Hugo to his knees. Perhaps Hector Gaunt trailed too heavily on his past knowledge of this old little man.

"What do you want to talk to me about?" Hugo asked with a great assumption of meekness.

"About Alice and your supposed relation to her," Gaunt replied. "It may become necessary to tell her the truth concerning herself. Do you understand?"

Apparently Hugo didn't; that is, not fully. His reply implied as much. "Jean doesn't want her to know that I've ever been in Broadmoor," he said. "It might make her nervous if she thought any one ever believed her father was insane."

Gaunt brought his clenched fist down heavily on the table, leaning forward and trying to fix Hugo with a blazing stare. Unfortunately, Hugo was not to be fixed.

"You know you are not Alice's father," Gaunt said coldly. "Why are you making this absurd pretense?"

Hugo blinked. "I think you must have a little mad," he murmured. "Really, Hector, it doesn't sound quite nice."

"Nice?" bellowed Gaunt. "I'm not trying to be nice."

"Hugo! Not so loud!" Hugo threw an apprehensive glance toward the villa, but Jean was probably in her own room on the other side of the house.

Gaunt modified his voice. "Some day it may be necessary for all of us to face facts," he went on. "All of us, I say—including Alice and her husband. That telegram, for instance—I'm inclined to think there's something behind it. Ardeyne may have found out that you're supposed to be Alice's father. He may have told Alice."

Hugo shifted uneasily. The same idea had occurred to him—that is to say, that Ardeyne had told Alice. He didn't want Jean to know how he had been fooling her about Ardeyne all this time. In his own troubled mind that was the complete solution of Alice's strange silence, followed by that cold and baffling telegram.

"I wish you wouldn't keep on saying I'm supposed to be Alice's father," he said peevishly. "I'm not ashamed of her—although I can quite well understand Jean's attitude as regards me. Some people might think I really had been insane, but if I chose to speak the truth about myself I could soon put all that right. I pleaded not guilty, and I wasn't guilty. It was the lawyers who put forward a plea of insanity. They took a lot on themselves, I can tell you. Carrie Egan knows about it. She knows how mad I was."

"I don't care a hang about any of that," Gaunt interrupted angrily. "The fact remains—"

"Dinner's ready," said Jean from the doorway.

Her face was still ghastly white, but she was quite composed and her voice even sounded cheerful. Hugo rose with alacrity.

"Dinner's ready," he repeated, although the information seemed superfluous.

Gaunt also rose. For the second time in the course of their long friendship Hugo Smarle had beaten him. The first occasion, of course, was when he followed Jean in her flight to London and persuaded her to marry him. Gaunt had no more than realized the fact that she had flown when the news of her marriage to Hugo reached him.

As things were it seemed impossible to continue the discussion just now. It was a most uncomfortable meal. Jean was lively and chatty, overflowing with high spirits. She talked of wanting a change. The Villa Modesta was getting tiresome; Bordighera was much too hot—not an ideal summer resort by any means. They would move on, Hugo and she. Hugo clasped his hands and ably seconded her suggestions. Gaunt was gloomy. He couldn't bear the thought of his loneliness, nor the thought of Jean wandering about having the care of that little madman with no one to help her in case she needed it; nor the thought of her unhappiness as regarded Alice. It was his place to be near her, for all of Hugo's pretensions. If Hugo hadn't been so—indeed he had never ceased to regard Jean 20 years ago, Jean would now be his—Hector Gaunt's—wife, and her as his wife. The whole thing had been a ghastly mixup, in Gaunt's opinion.

"Don't go away," he said, addressing Jean. "Come and stay with me at the farm, as I asked you to before."

Hugo waited apprehensively for her reply. He much preferred the larger world to Monte Nero, devoted as he was to Gaunt.

"I'm too restless," Jean said. "Thank you all the same, Hector."

"Me, too," Hugo chimed in. "I'm much too restless. But we're quite kind of you to ask us."

Gaunt brushed him aside as though he had been an irritating insect.

"Jean—I'm asking you not to go," he repeated. "Bordighera will be quite endurable for another two months."

"This villa is hot and stuffy," protested Hugo. "And the roof leaks. I want to go to London and start in business for myself. I've got a wonderful scheme."

Jean threw him a distrustful glance.

"Hugo, no—no, you mustn't!" she cried.

"You see," said Gaunt. "Once get him away from here and you'll have your hands full."

She rose and the men followed her out into the narrow strip of garden. Hugo pulling at Gaunt's arm and protesting all the time that he didn't mean to be kept in bondage, that if Jean wanted to leave Bordighera, what affair was it of Hector's?

"Hector, don't you realize that I'm unhappy and—restless?" she said. "You can guess why, easily enough. My little girl has forgotten me, already. I don't understand. I want to get away where I can forget—"

"You can't get away from yourself, my poor dear," Gaunt said quietly. "And I'm only thinking of what is best for you and Hugo—setting aside the fact that I want to be able to look after you."

Hugo took from his pocket the bamboo pipe he had made, and stared at it in a wondering fashion, as though it were a new discovery. Then his face lit up. He set the pipe to his lips and played a few notes, throwing Gaunt and Jean his sly, sideways glance.

Waving the pipe, he cried, "I could be quite, quite happy at the Villa Tatina!"

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna K. Forbes

YOUNG MEN AND BEAUTY.

There was a young man who had a curly hair, so begins the story of a large bundle of letters now lying on my desk. I can't think why so many of the young men who have curly hair hate it, but they seem to—those who don't doubtless become movie heroes.

In any case, there's little to be done to make curly hair straight (which one of our movie stars has his mane curled "permanently" every six months). I've forgotten). But the permanent wave shows what can be done to make straight hair curly. Those with undesired waves seem to go in for all sorts of creams and lotions and greases and pomades, and generally end up by losing curls and hair, too.

The only thing they can do is to use oil, plain, fine vegetable oil, castor or olive, rub it in well, and trust to their luck. Only hair is not as curly as dry hair, most men with very curly hair suffer from a dry scalp as well, and most pomades, while apparently very oily, are full of drying substances like glycerine and alcohol. These make the hair seem oily, or at least very shiny, but they really make it sticky and in the end most of them do a lot of harm. The mere fact that the pores of the scalp are clogged with heavy ointment is enough.

But oil, vegetable oil that is, is absorbed by the scalp, and goes into the hair as nourishment. Also, it cures and it prevents dandruff, and if it's castor oil it darkens the hair a shade or so—most every blonde or red-haired man prefers darker coloring.

Not long ago I happened to say here that there was no reason why a man should not patronize a beauty parlor for hair treatments. Is there?

Anxious—Brush the stray hairs at back of neck so you can gather them up into a net, or arrange hair low to hide them. They will never become any worse unless you clip or shave them.

Blonde—I doubt if there would be any artistic merit in having the bridesmaids carry flowers the same colors as their gowns, but a complimentary color always adds to beauty of the whole. The one wearing the subdued shade of ashes of rose can not match that shade in flowers.

Isora, discouraged—There is always a risk of injuring the bust if any mechanical device for development is used. Give it a tonic treatment by dashing cold water over the chest every day and follow with light friction from a coarse towel. Cocoa butter, warmed and gently massaged into the tissues will help also.

Clara—The advice above about the massage with cocoa butter will nourish and fatten the muscles of your legs. If you are underweight, build up by drinking plenty of milk and by taking a tablespoonful of olive oil in the same amount of grape juice three times a day.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Rains Hurt Crops.

Montezuma, Ga., June 8.—(Special.)—Much damage is the result of the continued rains on the cotton crop. Farmers throughout the county state. Many report a poor stand and, though the stalks are only a few inches above the ground, the boll weevil is at work. "The condition of the roads is probably the worst in years, due to continued rains and many washouts and this is causing the handling of the peach crop to be a much more difficult task than usual."

ROBS CALOMEL OF NAUSEA AND DANGER

Medical Virtues Retained and Improved—Dangerous and Sickening Qualities Removed. Perfect Tablet Called "Calotabs."

The latest triumph of modern science is a "de-nauseated" calomel tablet known to the drug trade as "Calotabs." Calomel, the most generally useful of all medicines, thus enters upon a wider field of popularity—purified and refined from those objectionable qualities which have heretofore limited its use.

In biliousness, constipation, headaches and indigestion, and in a great variety of liver, stomach and kidney troubles, calomel was the most successful remedy, but its use was often neglected on account of its sickening qualities. Now it is the easiest and most pleasant of medicines to take. One Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea, no salts. A good night's sleep and the next morning you are feeling fine, with a clean liver, a purified system and a big appetite. Eat what you please. No danger.

Calotabs are sold only in original, sealed packages, price thirty-five cents for the large, family package; ten cents for the small, trial size. Your druggist is authorized to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.—(adv.)

Musicians' Club Will Give Dance.

The Musicians' club announces an informal dance to be given Saturday evening at the Roseland hall, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, beginning at 9 o'clock.

Former visitors to the club dances are cordially invited. Music will be rendered by the Rambler orchestra.

Soldiers May Not Shave.

Ceuta, Morocco, June 8.—Orders have been issued by the Spanish army authorities commanding all officers and soldiers of the regular army to grow moustaches. The upper lip may be adorned with long or short hair, according to the wish of the owner or his ability to cultivate it.

Oil Discovered in Prussia.

Peine, Prussia, June 8.—Oil containing 20 per cent benzine is reported to have been struck at Olberg, near here. It is stated that the wells spouted as high as the lofty boring towers when the first strike was made. The area under exploitation covers 10,000 acres.

Railway Conductors Will Hold Meeting.

The Order of Railway Conductors, Atlanta division 180, Georgia division 457 and Ladies' Auxiliary to O. R. C., divisions 43 and 337, will hold their memorial service in Pythian hall, ninth floor of Forsyth building, on Sunday, June 10, at 2 o'clock.

WESTERN CREDIT MEN COMING TO ATLANTA

Kansas City, Mo., June 8.—Members of the National Association of Credit Men of Wichita, Hutchinson, Kansas, and Tulsa and Ponca City, Okla., and St. Joseph, Mo., were expected to join Kansas City members here today and to proceed with them tonight in special Pullman cars to the convention of the association, to be held in Atlanta June 12 to 15.

The Kansas City group will be headed by J. S. Covert, president of the Kansas City Association of Credit Men, and C. L. Davies, director of the national organization from the sixth district, comprising Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Louisiana, Arizona and Arkansas.

The Code of the Mountains

By CHARLES NEVILLE BUCK

Next Week, "Desert Dust"

By Edwin L. Sabin

With a gasp which she struggled vainly to suppress, the girl recoiled back and stood, staring for support against the rough thunders of the stable. For a moment she could not understand, and when she found words she asked in a dazed voice:

"To get Henry Falkins—why?"

"Henry's the man that penitentiary Newt," came the response. "Newt's done sworn the blood-oath. He's done tried once afore, but he was hindered. That's a meetin' over at Jackson today, an' men air lookin' fer trouble. Newt aims ter git Henry today."

Suddenly the girl's stupor broke into a fury of indignation.

"Does ye aim ter stand there an' suffer a man ter be murdered with out liftin' a finger ter save him?" Her questioning voice rose shrilly and lapsed into dialect. "Why did ye stand by an' let Newt do it?"

"Clem Rawlins shook his head. "What war I a goin' ter do?" he perplexedly demanded. "Does ye reckon Newt war liable ter take counsel o' me?"

"Well, ye've got ter do suthin' now," Clem Rawlins, she commanded. "I'll go myself, an' I won't stop that. I'll carry a gun, an' I'll take the short cut over the ridge an' the roughs, an' I'll git ter town ahead of Newt. I aims ter carry a warnin' letter, an' I'll be there afore Newt."

She wheeled and without a word, or a hat plunged into the laurel thickets of the hillside, and was climbing with a rapid stride up steps which would have winded a taborback hog.

At last, on a spent and limping mule, she rode into Jackson. Finally, she stood face to face with the venerable old man, to whom she gave her message. Henry Falkins had not yet reached the town, but she conveyed her warning to his father, and when she did so, she learned that the pre-arranged code of foxhounds, signals had already brought the tidings, so she slipped away and left her horse indoors at the house of a kinsman.

It happened that just as Newt rode his horse around the bend of the north road and turned into Main street, his eyes narrowed and his jaws clamped, and the lines around the corners of his mouth grew deeper and harder. He had heard the whistle of a train, and he knew that it was a signal announcing the approach of his victim.

In point of fact, it heralded not only Henry Falkins, but Red Newton and Buddy Spooner, his accomplices, freshly released on bond from the Winchester Jail, and returned, perhaps, to fire the waiting volcano.

McAllister Falkins met his son on the platform.

"It looks ugly, my boy," he said. "Jake Falkins' son, young Jake, has assumed the leadership, and his one song is punishment of his father's murder. He's drinking and is excited, and he has a strong and nasty-tempered force behind him. I've been with him, urging peace, and several of his older advisers seem inclined to listen. I've gotten their promise that they will make every mortal effort to delay any outbreak until I've made my speech at noon. That's as far as I can move them."

"And the other fellows—the Spooners," inquired the son anxiously. "What's their move?"

"What's their move?" the old man, once more celebrating the return of these assassins, the situation will become hopeless."

McAllister nodded.

"So far they seem quiet enough, but they are all armed to the teeth and keyed to concert pitch. Black Pete has kept religiously out of sight and seems to be acting in good faith. He slipped secretly into town before sunrise and has been under cover since in the courthouse. He has talked to several of the leaders in my presence. They, too, have promised to hold their hands until I have spoken. Mr. Kew Henry, the single chance seems to hang on the possibility of my being able to sweep them off their feet—and if I fail—" He broke off suddenly, and his eyes were the torture of weariness.

For years no man had heard McAllister Falkins speak except in the smooth and cultivated parlance of the lowlands. In Congress he had been accounted silver-tongued, yet now, by some stress of excitement, when the white-haired patriarch lifted up his voice, words came tumbling from his lips, not in measured phrases but in the crude cascading force of verbiage. But the old gentlemen kept a wary eye upon the members of his clan and when he saw young Jake Falkins draw his pistol and saw him confronting his father's murderer, Red Newton, he shouted out: "Stop it! yer d—d fools—stop hit!" and sprang between them. There were murmurs among the Falkins tribe and Jake cried out that his father had been the leader "of our kith and kin," that he had been murdered and he was going to have revenge. "Mac," answered with decisiveness of a general officer who had no doubt of his commands being obeyed: "take that lev's gun away from him until I'm through." For a moment they hesitated, and the boy himself tightened his grip on his weapon until his knuckles showed in white spots.

McAllister Falkins caught the wrist and held it; without a word three elder kinsmen surrounded and disarmed the young insurgent. Instantly McAllister Falkins wheeled to face the Spooners.

"Jim Spooner, Joe Belmeat, Jerry Spooner," he tipped out the names rapidly and crisply. "Do you do likewise with Red Newton and Buddy Spooner?"

But the two defendants had been reading the signs, and, as their kinsmen came forward, they voluntarily surrendered their weapons.

"Now," went on the old man. "I'm going to ask you boys on both sides of the road to show me one more evidence of good faith. Let all the men in the front of this crowd carry back their guns and stack them at the rear. Then let us come forward again. Don't let us have any rifles or pistols at the front."

Rather, wondering at their ready compliance, yet under the force of something like a spell and also with a sense of immense relief, the men when it again fell quiet not a barrel or stock was visible.

"Now," he announced quietly. "I want those same three Falkins men and those same three Spooners, still unarmed, to come up here and stand on either side of me. I wish to have the honor of their services as my escort and body guard."

As he spoke, the last words the old orator uttered, and through the crowd, humorless and grim as it was, ran a murmur of responsive laughter at the ludicrous jest of this old lion asking personal protection. Yet he had drawn impartially from both elements, and the men stepped to their places with alacrity.

Then the old man began to speak. The mountaineer has few pleasures, and except for feudal warfare, few excitements. He loves the fulminations of public speaking and the stirring influences of the forensic. McAllister Falkins believed to be the greatest of all orators, and to interrupting sound broke the thread of his speech. He praised the good in both factions and denounced their mutual lawlessness. He pleaded with the Falkins, as with members of his own family, to await patiently the process of law in the trials of Red Newton and Buddy Spooner. But it was the fashion of his saying these things which in the end availed, for he knew his hearers and played on their emotions as a pianist plays on the keys of a familiar instrument.

Finally the elderly speaker turned toward the courthouse door at his back, and raised his hand; and in response to the signal the tall and dignified figure of the Deacon appeared for a moment framed there, and came forward to take his place at the side of his sponsor.

He was coming, were expecting him; had agreed to hear him speak, and yet, when they actually saw him, it was with something like a shock to the venerable element, so that, despite the bondage of their pledge, a low chorused growl ran from throat to throat. Many of their younger clansmen had never seen this man of whom such black tales were told. None of the older men had seen him in recent years.

WOMEN ASK AUDIT OF CITY'S BOOKS

Resolutions endorsing the movement by Mayor Walter A. Sims for a complete audit of various city departments with a view of curtailing municipal expenditures and placing into effect a policy of rigid economy, were adopted at the first executive board meeting of the Atlanta Woman's club Friday under the new administration of Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president.

Sentiment of the board members as well as that of the entire membership of the Woman's club is solidly in accord with the retrenchment policy advocated by the mayor owing to the large deficit faced by the city government at the present time, it was stated.

The resolution adopted by the executive board follows:

Resolved, That the executive board of the Atlanta Woman's club go on record as endorsing the movement initiated by Mayor Walter Sims, looking toward a general business audit of the financial books of the city government.

It is further resolved, That the above resolution of the executive board of the Atlanta Woman's club be published in the Atlanta Constitution.

BOND WINS MEDAL
Gate City Guard Holds Competitive Drill.

Sergeant W. T. Bond, who served during the world war as a second lieutenant of the infantry, was permanently awarded a medal Thursday night, after being chosen for the third time, the best drilled soldier in the Gate City Guard, or Company F, 122d Infantry, following a competitive drill in the manual of arms.

Colonel A. E. Williams, assistant chief of staff, fourth army corps area, Captain M. W. Richmond, Captain H. D. Bagnall, and First Lieutenant P. W. Ebb served as judges. Following the drills and the award of the medal by Colonel Williams, Captain Richmond and Bagnall made short talks in which they declared that the Gate City Guard as a whole was proficient and presented soldierly appearances.

Washington, June 8.—Decision to give women a more prominent place in the councils of the republican party was reached at a conference to-night between President Harding and John T. Adams, chairman of the republican national committee. The exact nature of the participation was not fully decided upon, pending a canvass of members of the national committee by Chairman Adams, but it was said after the conference that the initial step probably would be the appointment of a woman from each state to act in an advisory or advisory capacity to the committee.

This step is expected to be taken soon and it was said to be probable that even fuller participation would be granted by the national committee at its meeting next year coincident with the national convention.

The decision with respect to women was said by Chairman Adams to have been the principal topic of discussion at the conference which lasted more than an hour, although "about forty other matters were talked over."

Among these were understood to have been the administration world court proposal, toward which Mr. Adams has been reported as somewhat cool, and the statement issued by the national committee publicity bureau attacking the allied governments for their attitudes in the Rhineland army cost negotiations and soon after withdrawn by request of the state department after Secretary Hughes had made a protest to the president. The latter matter, Mr. Adams said, is now a dead issue.

STATE GOVERNORS' MEETING LIKELY TO BE DELAYED

Washington, June 8.—The conference of state governors which the President intends to call for a discussion of prohibition enforcement may be postponed until next fall, at the White House today it was said that the conference was "somewhat up in the air" and that a definite announcement would be forthcoming next week.

REALTORS TO FORM FARM LAND DIVISION

For the purpose of organizing a land division for the realtors of the state who are interested in farm lands, a meeting at the Hotel Dempsey in Macon, Thursday at 12 o'clock, has been called by J. Clay Murphy, of Macon, president of the Georgia Real Estate association. The division is being organized to create a better market for Georgia farm lands, and to assist farmers of the state in solving problems facing them, the announcement stated.

The creation of such division was authorized by the executive committee of the association at its last meeting. Provisions were made in the constitution authorizing that all realtors in the state interested in farm lands could be admitted to membership, it was announced. Mr. Murphy urged that all interested dealers be present at the meeting, so that a division strong enough to render some assistance to the farmer, and to really promote marketing of farm lands, can be formed.

The Georgia Real Estate association is composed of the city boards of Atlanta, Savannah, Macon, Augusta and Columbus, most of whose realtors dealing only in city real estate.

Sutton Speaks At Mode Home This Afternoon

Dr. Willis A. Sutton's lecture this afternoon on "Educational Co-operation in the Home" and a musical program tonight with "Home, Sweet Home" as its finale, will feature the Better Homes program at the "model home" at 57 Orme Circle today. The home will be open until 10 o'clock tonight and Sunday night.

The home has been the center of attraction during Better Homes week here. Miss Belle Bennett, leading woman of the Forsyth Players, told members of the home committee Friday that she will build a replica of the model dwelling for a summer residence at Long Island, N. Y. She was a special guest of the committee during the day.

The musical program for this evening will be under the direction of Mrs. H. A. Say. Hostesses for the evening are Mrs. W. D. Williams, Mrs. Harold Roberts, Mrs. J. J. Moriarty, Mrs. T. D. Spurlock, Mrs. J. Van Hook, Mrs. C. D. Dickenson, Mrs. E. P. Corrigan, Mrs. A. Jacobson and Mrs. May Bailey.

Flowers with which the home is decorated were supplied by Dahl Floral company. The house, owned by Mrs. Carrie Keith Davis, was planned and built by Mrs. Clara L. Boward. Miss Tommie Dora Barker selected the library for the house. Mrs. Henry Bernard Scott, Atlanta artist, selected the pictures with which the walls are embellished. The members of the Furniture Dealers' association supplied the furniture and complete electrical equipment was furnished and installed by members of the Atlanta Electrical association.

The general committee of Atlanta's Better Homes week includes: Mrs. Newton C. Wine, general chairman; C. K. Ayer, representing the chamber of commerce; Mrs. Arthur Hazard, treasurer; and Mrs. Harold Roberts, secretary. The subcommittee includes: Mrs. Sims, mayor; Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools; Mrs. Albert Akers, president fifth district Women's Club; and Mrs. Thomas T. Stevens, president of the Atlanta City and County Women's Club. The subcommittee chairmen are Mrs. Victor Koleschaber, house equipment; Mrs. J. A. Cardie, house furnishing; Mrs. Albert Akers, program; Mrs. Murray Hubbard, budget; Mrs. J. J. Moriarty, records; Mrs. George Roberts and Mrs. W. B. Williamson, cashman and publicity. Representatives from a number of Atlanta's organizations are also on the committee.

Filipino Caught With Torn Body Of Young Woman

New York, June 8.—A man, believed to be a Filipino, was arrested at Mariner's harbor, Staten Island, tonight as he was about to throw the knife hacked body of a young white woman into the water.

The young woman's body was wrapped in a bundle and police said it had been taken from Manhattan to Staten Island on a ferry boat. The victim was believed to have been about 22 years old.

The arrested man took a taxi cab at the St. George ferry house to Mariner's harbor, where he stood waiting for an Elizabethport boat. He was about to hurl the body, which was wrapped in a newspaper, into the harbor when Police Sergeant Miller seized him.

Russia Refuses Compliance With Britain's Note

Moscow, June 8.—(By The Associated Press)—Soviet Russia will not lower her dignity in the eyes of the eastern peoples by withdrawing her representatives from Persia at England's demand. This is understood to be the official soviet attitude in regard to Lord Curzon's latest note. The Soviet contends these representatives are not engaged in anti-British propaganda, as alleged, but are carrying out a defense struggle for Russia's interest in the border land. The Soviet government is ready to concede practically all the other points raised by the British, it is said, but this it can not.

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH PLANNED

and by-laws of the Emory university Alumni Association, made a short talk explaining the new constitution of the association to the medical alumni and calling on them to back the new university association. His talk was received with enthusiasm.

Other speakers on the program were: Dr. A. J. Mooney, 1908; Dr. R. M. Patey, Jr., 1923; Dr. O. O. Fanning and Dr. W. S. Elkin, dean of the Emory university school of medicine.

For the first time in the history of Emory university alumni association meetings, ladies were in attendance at the medical banquet. Those who occupied a box in the banquet hall during the discussions were: Misses Pauline Pye, Helen Phillips, Mollie Courtney, R. M. Latham, Mattie Lawrence, Annie Daurie Green, May Gorman and Mrs. Margaret Smith.

Blue-Eyed Girls Taken in Custody In Murder Case

Chicago, Ill., June 8.—More girls with blue eyes and peculiar smiles continued today to be taken into custody or to be sought by the police investigating the shooting to death during a hold-up last Tuesday night of Richard C. Tesmer, insurance adjuster. Mrs. Tesmer said her husband was shot by a blue-eyed girl who smiled during the hold-up and fled with a male companion after Tesmer had been killed.

Miss Ethel Brown, of Prospect, Ill., released from the county jail two weeks ago after being held with several others in connection with several hold-ups, was taken into custody today. At her rooms the police found clippings relating to the Tesmer case. The girl, bobbed-haired and smiling, denied any knowledge of the crime, but the police regarded the finding of the clippings and the fact that she had moved a few days ago to a new address as suspicious. She will be taken before Mrs. Tesmer who will be asked to identify her.

The police declared the girl was an addict of narcotics and said they were hunting for a narcotic addict on the theory that only such a woman could have shot Tesmer as he stood helplessly with his hands raised and then laugh as she fled.

Bandits Promise To Free Captives Within Four Days

Chief of Brigands Promises to Release Eight Foreign Prisoners.

Tientsin, June 9.—(By The Associated Press).—The chief of the Shanghai train bandits now holding eight foreign captives in the Paozouki Mountain stronghold has promised that the prisoners will be released within four days, according to a letter received today by the French consul here. The letter was signed by a Shanghai broker, who is among those held.

While the general health of the prisoners was said to be satisfactory, all those who were ill having virtually recovered, intense heat is causing some discomfort.

The attitude of the outlaws toward their foreign prisoners varies according to circumstances. Some of the bandit groups seem to be willing to do anything for the captives, while others indulge in petty tyranny. J. B. Powell, Shanghai newspaper man, is said to have lost his temper recently and knocked out one of the guards who had become offensive. The bandits are continually quarrelling among themselves when they are not conversing with the prisoners.

Many of the brigands, unfamiliar with fire arms, have nearly caused several tragedies by their careless handling of weapons. Yesterday one of the bandits is said to have blown his hand off accidentally discharging a rifle.

A German priest who has just returned from the bandits' mountain retreat said heat and flies were the worst of the captives' troubles. Many of the bandits, he said, were suffering from some ailment or other, two of them being lepers.

The priest, who is also versed in medicine, earned the good will of the bandits by attending his sick ones, which he was not allowed to stay in the camp.

FORMER MEMPHIS DRUGGIST HELD ON FRAUD CHARGE

Memphis, Tenn., June 8.—H. Diggs Nolen, former Memphis druggist, already under bond on a state charge of forgery, which brought a sentence of from three to 15 years and indicted yesterday on a charge of having violated a federal narcotic law, was arrested today in connection with an alleged attempt to cash a New York exchange for $5,000 which the police allege is a forgery.

Bootleggers Found Using Wireless Set In Louisiana Bayou

New Orleans, La., June 8.—Federal and parish officials today discovered on a bayou in St. Bernard parish, near here, a liquor runner's camp equipped with a wireless receiving set of a type capable of picking up radio messages from a long distance. The belief was expressed that the equipment was used for receiving messages from rum-laden vessels at sea and from rum-runners in the bayous in New Orleans. A considerable stock of liquor was seized.

Kansas Labor Leader Faces Assault Charge; Declared "Frame-Up"

Pittsburg, Kan., June 8.—On a serious charge brought by the mother of a 3-year-old boy, Alexander Howard, well known Kansas labor leader, was held here Thursday under $1,000 bail.

Howard, who was recently deposed as president of the United Mine Workers in the Pittsburg, Kan., district, and who attracted wide attention during his controversy with Governor Allen of Kansas in the industrial court imbroglio, denied the charge and called it "a frame up."

He telegraphed for his lawyer to come from Pittsburg, Kan., to defend him. Mrs. Inga Sorenson of Chicago, made the complaint.

Clipped Tresses Drives 2 Women To Attempt Death

Detroit, Mich., June 8.—Bobbed hair and the strenuous resultant disapproval expressed by their husbands, drove two Detroit women to suicidal attempts today.

Mrs. Julia Alamoore, 22 years old, had her hair bobbed Wednesday. Yesterday, she said, her husband beat her and otherwise showed his objections to the bobbing. She said she swallowed 25 anti-pain tablets and when they failed to do any more than make her dizzy she took a poison tablet, from the effects of which she was recovering at a hospital tonight.

Mrs. Marjorie Ann Weber, 34 years old, was rescued after jumping into the Detroit river early today. She said her husband, Hugh, a traveling salesman, returned from a trip Thursday to find her short of her locks. There was a scuffle, she said, and she left the house to leap into the river. She was rescued.

"AL SMITH CLUBS" ARE BEING FORMED BY SAVANNAHANS

Savannah, Ga., June 8.—(Special).—"Al Smith Clubs" are being formed in Savannah today. Petitions are circulating and receiving a number of signatures subscribing to the platform, "If You Believe in Person, Liberty, Sanity, and States Rights, Sign Below."

Many signers are citing the recent action of the Georgia grand jury in its suggestion that Georgia practically follow Gov. Al Smith's state in repealing its prohibition laws.

DEFICIT CREATED TO INSURE FULL CUSTOMS STAFF

Washington, June 8.—Creation of a deficit by the treasury so that the customs service may continue with a full staff has been authorized by President Harding. It was announced officially today. The president's authorization means that the New York and Boston customs houses will not have to lay off any of their personnel to keep within appropriations.

Chinese President Declines Resignations Of Premier's Cabinet

Peking, June 8.—President Li Yuan-Hung has declined to accept the resignations of Premier Chang Shao-Tseng's cabinet and is continuing his overtures to the premier, who is at present in Tientsin. The cabinet resigned Wednesday.

Adair and Howell Attack McCalley On Surety Bonds

Charging that W. L. McCalley, Jr., chairman of the finance and building committee of the board of education, has received approximately $40,000 in premiums on surety bonds for his company since the $4,000,000 school building program was launched, Forrest Adair, realtor, and G. Arthur Howell, insurance man, Friday in a letter to Mayor Walter A. Sims declared the school commissioner was acting "illegally in awarding indemnity contracts to the company he represents as southeastern manager."

The letter from Mr. Adair and Mr. Howell pointed out that since they had filed suit in Fulton superior court several weeks ago seeking to have all construction work bonded by the National Surety company, represented by Mr. McCalley as southeastern agent, declared illegal, that company had been awarded seven out of eight surety contracts for new school plants now in process of construction.

A reply to the suit by the city denying the legality of the bonds signed by the National Surety company, was filed in superior court Friday by the city of Atlanta, formally replying to charges in the injunction suit instituted by Mr. Adair and Mr. Howell.

Mayor Sims declined to comment on the communication, other than to say that he would transmit it to council for action by that body at its next session.

PEACHTREE HILLS CITIZENS DISCUSS FIRE PROTECTION

Fire protection and improvement of roads in that section occupied the greater part of the meeting Friday night of the Peachtree Hills Improvement club, which was held at the home of W. T. Martin. Reports were that road repairs will be made soon and that the Southern Bell Telephone company is going to install telephones within thirty days.

It. L. Burns, president of the association, stated that he was well pleased with the accomplishments of the organization so far. The next meeting will be held at Mr. Martin's home at 8 o'clock, Friday night, June 22.

New York, June 8.—Although dis-

New York, June 8.—Although dispatches received from abroad declare the latest German reparations offer with guarantees fails to satisfy either French or Belgians, British officials express hope regarding the outlook for an early settlement.

Advices received in local banking circles are to the effect that officials in Washington are of the opinion that settlement will be reached during the summer and that the latest offer is only a wedge for the opening up of a general discussion of the entire matter.

The statement of the reserve banks, both for the system and for New York show a reduction in the ratio of reserve as compared with the previous week, but this was not considered unusual at this time.

In some quarters belief exists that further reduction in the ratio may be witnessed over the next few weeks, due to the pending mid-year money requirements.

Re-discounts record an increase over the previous week and are about $30,000,000 above the peak reached in March. The total of $730,000,000.

However, is modest compared with the figure of $2,500,000 reported at his time in 1920.

Directors of the Adams Express company have increased the quarterly dividend from $1 to $1.25 per share. This action came as a surprise to the rank and file here as no change was expected in view of the recent reduction in the rate announced by the Sensations Expected.

In line with the recent unethical acts of certain prominent individuals in Wall street, which have been brought to the light as a result of the hearings into the many bucket shop failures, many reports are circulated, here, that the great, that the new

Slump In Marks.

This, however, is natural in view of recent developments and the adding of nearly a trillion marks to circulation within the past week.

Three more Wall street houses are expected to go to the wall, according to rumors. It is officially known that the three in question are under investigation.

Directors of the Postum Cereal company today declared a 100 per cent stock dividend. This payment was made possible by recent doubling of the capital stock as approved by stockholders. After the dividend there will be six hundred thousand shares outstanding. At the same time the directors declared a quarterly divi-dividend of 75 cents a share on new stock payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 20. The stock dividend is payable July 1; the new dividend places the shares on a $3 annual basis.

Nickel Report.

The annual report of the International Nickel company shows net profits of $48,000 after all charges and expenses against a loss of $1,335,000 in 1921.

The recent advance and activity in the common stock is based upon the belief that the company has turned the corner to better earnings. A pool is reported operating in the shares.

Despite the heavy car loadings

Despite the heavy car loadings of the past few weeks, no shortage in freight cars is looked for by Julius Kruttschnitt, head of the Southern Pacific.

He says that if there was to be a car shortage, it would be experienced right now.

The better position of the railroads is explained by the fact that they are constantly receiving deliveries on recent equipment orders.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 8.—The New Haven system reports the May average daily interchange of freight cars was 5,870 cars, the highest sustained average in the company's history.

Alfred H. Swayne, vice president of General Motors corporation, has been elected a director of the Lehigh Valley Railroad company to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Charles D.

An extra dividend of half of one per cent in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 11-2 per cent has been declared by the Lone Star Shipbuilding company.

Chicago, June 8.—Potatoes, steady; receipts, 66 cars; total United States shipments, 917; Wisconsin and Michigan sacked round whites, $2.90 cwt.; new stock weak. South Carolina barrel cobblers, No. 1, $6.35. Alabama and Louisiana sacked Triumph top few sales to establish market.
